ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all I would like to express my profound heart felt sense of gratitude to Prof K.V.Aiyanna, Professor of Development Studies, Institute of Development Studies, University of Mysore, Karnataka, India who has been my supervisor since the beginning of my study. He provided me with many helpful suggestions, important advice and constant encouragement during the course of this work.

Special thanks are due to my Father-in-law Dr. Ali Azam Khosravi nohooji Faculty member of Shahed University who supported me a lot in the successful completion of this study and for his encouragement, guidance and invaluable suggestions throughout my study.

I express my sincere thanks to Dr. Guruprasad for his untiring support and guidance given to me for the analysis and use of statistical tools at right and appropriate places.

I would like to convey my special thanks to the Director and all faculty members and office staffs of the Institute of Development Studies, University of Mysore Manasagangotry, Mysore, for their cordial support and help to provide all the materials required for this work.

My special appreciation goes to my parents and my brothers who always kept me away from family responsibilities and encouraged me to concentrate on my study and moral support, sacrifices and prayers for the successful completion of my research work.

Finally, I would like to express special thanks to my dear wife, who helped me to concentrate on completing this work and supported mentally during the course of this work. Without her help and encouragement, this study would not have been completed.
