ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

One of the greatest moments of achievement is to look over the past journey and remember all the individuals who have come together and supported me to accomplish my dream come true. At this juncture, I would like to express my deepest appreciation to all those who provided me the possibility to complete this thesis.

First and foremost, I express my sincere thanks to the Almighty God not only for showering me with all the blessings but also for guiding and directing me to take this study under the supervision of my Professor, D. Sambandhan.

As a protégé to my Mentor and Supervisor, Prof. D. Sambandhan, Pondicherry University, I express my indebtedness with deep sense of humility, largely for his willingness to teach me the subject by unleashing his unrelenting inspirational academic insights to make me understand some essence of Economics and pioneering me through his encouragements and guidance from the inception of choosing the area of study till its completion.

I am grateful to my Doctoral Committee members, Prof. M. Ramachandran, for inspiring and initiating me to do serious research on empirical side, and Prof. Mohanan B. Pillai, who helped me constantly in keeping my morale high. I sincerely thank Dr. Amaresh Samantaraya for accepting me to attend his lectures on Econometrics and rendering valuable suggestions for my research during various interactions with him.

I also record my deepest gratitude to my teachers, Prof. P. Moorthy, Prof. P. Lazarus Samraj, Prof. B. Krishnamurthy and other faculty members of the Department of Politics and International Studies, Pondicherry University, who were very much kind to me during the course of my studies.

The good advice, support and friendship of my seniors, Dr. M. B. Mohandas and Mr. R. Sathish, an Indian Economic Service officer, have been priceless on both academic and personal level, for which I am extremely grateful.
I would also like to acknowledge with much appreciation the role of Mrs. V. Dhanalakshmi, a Staff in Dean Office of School of Social Sciences and International Studies, Pondicherry University, in providing timely help on various occasions.

Interactions with my dearest friends, Mr. B. Balaji and Dr. A. Vadivel, on various occasions have been of great help in understanding the technicalities involved in the thesis for which I am deeply indebted and I record my sincere thanks to them. In addition, it is a great pleasure in remembering all my close friends, Mr. S. Ramesh, Dr. U. Devasenadhipathi, Dr. K. Durairaj, Mr. S. Mariappan, Dr. Senthamizh Raja, Dr. J. Vikramathithan and few of my juniors, Mr. S. Marutheeswaran, Mr. T. Thambi Durai, Mr. M. Rajamanickam, Mr. T. Rajasekar and Mr. K. Bharathiraja, who are more like my own brothers, for making campus life a homely atmosphere with lots of joy, fun and lively; I thank them formally in this special space for their kindness and care.

I express my heartfelt thanks to my fellow comrades, Mr. K. Ramesh and Mr. K. Mahendra Babu, for providing an inviting work place with cordial and peaceful environment.

I owe a lot to Ms. Swati Sulagna for her harmonious and finest friendship which has been indispensable to sustain me to complete this thesis.

Above all, it’s the pleasant occasion to show my courtesy in remembering my Appa, Amma, my brother, my Anni and Shoan for showering me with all love and care.
