

Aizenman, Joshua and Marion (2002), Interpretation of the relatively high demand for reserves by countries in emerging Asia and the relatively low demand by developing countries” Reserve Bank of India, Bulletin, 2002.

Ajay Kumar (2004), in the book titled Exchange Rate Behaviour in Developing Countries with special reference to India”.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Bird and Rajan (2003), “Too Good to be True? The Adequacy of International Reserves Holdings in an Era of Capital Account Crisis”, World Economy, 16, pp 873-891

Landell-Mills J. M. (1989), The Demand for International Reserves and Their Opportunity Cost, Staff Papers - International Monetary Fund, 36 (3), (September, pp. 708-732

Rao Hanumanth, Greater Financial Institution ; A Need of Indian Economy, available at www.hanufinance@yahoo.com

Sachs Goldman (2003), Forecasts India set to rank third by 2040, The Hindu, December 29.

Sunil Sondhi (2004), India’s Wining Strategies: Challenges to an Emerging Power, paper presented at Conference in Glendon College, Toronto, 28th February.

Reports

Annual Reports (Various Issues), Reserve Bank of India, India.

Data base of Economic and Political Weekly

Harmonized Index of Consumer Prices in India, October 2006.

IMF, Annual Report (Various Issues), International Monetary Fund, Washington DC.

IMF, World Economic Outlook (Various issues), International Monetary Fund, Washington DC.

RBI’s Current Statistics
