CONTENTS

Preface

Contents

List of Tables

CHAPTER (I): Social Relationships as Determinants of Social Distance: A Historical Perspective (from classical to modern) 1-36

(B) Modern Approaches:

(I) Socio-psychological Approaches - (i) social distance as sympathetic understanding; (ii) social antipathy or distance as different degrees of sympathy and antipathy; (iii) social "aloofness" and "unapproachability" as social distance; (iv) distance between peripheral and central and as different degrees of intimacy and termed as social distance; (v) social avoidance as a norm of social relationships of distance; (vi) degrees of integration and disintegration. (II) Psychological Approaches: (i) Personality system aspect; (ii) degree of intimacy of thought and action; (iii) social distance visualized also as conceptualized as social distance; (iv) mental nearness; (v) as reserve or constraint; (v) as ambivalence; (vi) as social intolerance; (vii) as a form of discrimination; (viii) as feeling of willingness or unwillingness; (ix) as attitudes of ego-centricism. (III) Sociological Approaches: (i) as a division of attributes; (ii) in terms of socio-cultural space; (iii) as degree of social separation, (iv) as relative accessibility. (VI) Social Distance: Its Dimensions; (a) Personal; (b) Horizontal; (c) Vertical; (d) Passive; (e) Normative; (f) Interactive; (g) Cultural or valuational; (h) racial; (i) age; (j) educational;
(k) class; (l) nationality; (m) residential; (n) position; (o) inter-personal physical; (p) inter-personal social. (v) Evaluation: Social distance as willingness and rejection.

CHAPTER (II): Social Distance Studies Abroad: A Review 37-69

I. Research Interest and studies; - II. Hypotheses tested; III. Subjects studied; IV. Respondent's Characteristics; (1) race or ethnicity; (2) nationality; (3) Age; (4) sex; (5) education; (6) occupation; (7) political orientation; (8) parental background; (9) social contacts; (10) Miscellaneous characteristics. V. Response Characteristics: (1) Perceived similarity; (2) Assumed similarity; (3) Assumed similarity of Opposites; (4) Self-disclosure; VI. Generalisation Hypothesis; VII. Generalizations.

CHAPTER (III): Social Distance Studies in India: 69-104

I. Beginnings of social Distance Studies; conceptual Development; Murphy, Mukherjee, Majumdar and Madan, Baljeet Singh, Narayan, etc. II. Nature of Social Distance studies: Historical Evolution; III. Sample size; IV. Stimulus subjects; V. Response subjects; VI. Regions studied; VII. Characteristics of Respondents. VIII. Age, sex, caste, religion, occupation, socio-economic status, Education, Language, Locality, length of stay, nationality. VIII. Measurement of Social Distance: (a) Adaptations of Bogardus Technique, (b) Adaptation of Campbell and Levine Technique (c) Percentage Scale; (d) Adaptation of Triandis Technique; (e) Projective Test Technique; (f) Semantic perception Test; (g) Adaptation of Katz and Barley Technique; (h) Questionnaire Technique; (i) Prejudice Scale; (j) Adaptation of Likert Technique; (k) Check-list Technique; (l) Generalized Distance Coefficient Technique; (m) Caste Distance Scales; (n) Indices of Degrees of contact; (ii) Differential Relationship Scale; (iii) Caste Discrimination Scale; (iv) Caste Prejudice Scale; (v) Caste Ranking Technique; (vi) Acceptance and Rejection Scale; (vii) Inclusion and exclusion Scale; (viii) Differential Treatment Scale; (n) Social Distance Scale; Sharma & Hallen (1974), (o) An overview: Evaluation.

CHAPTER (IV) : Social Distance : Evolution of Measuring Devices

I. Bogardus' Device for Measuring Social Distance: (a) construction of social distance scale; (b) Evaluation of Bogardus S.D. Scale; (c) Application of Bogardus Technique; (d) Adaptations of Bogardus Technique; (e) Improvements in Bogardus Scale. II. Social Distance. III. Likert Technique. IV. Method of Paired Comparison; V. Semantic Differential Method; VI. Rank order Scale; VII. Interview Technique; VIII. Questionnaire Technique; IX. Internal consistency scale; (k) Evaluation.

CHAPTER (V) : The Present Study : 140-177

I. The Statement of the Problem; II. Objectives of the study; III. Hypotheses; IV. Conceptualization; (A) Social Distance; (b) Social Discrimination; (c) Belief; (d) Prejudice; (e) Stereotypes; (f) Social Distance; Social Discrimination and Prejudice; (g) Alienation; (h) In-group and out-group; (i) Determinants; (j) caste; (k) Religion, (l) Region; (m) Age; (n) Sex; (o) Education; (p) occupation; (q) Income; (r) Political Orientation. V. Locate of the Present Study; VI. Scope and Delimitations; VII. Methods and Procedure; VIII. Selection of the Sample; IX. Research Procedure.

CHAPTER (VI) : Untouchability Among Sudras : 178-289

CHAPTER (VII) : Conclusions and Implications : 290-307

References R-1 - R-53
Bibliography B-1 - B-11
Appendices A-1 - A-15

(A) Sharma-Hallen Social Distance Scale
(B) Abstract of Studies Conducted Abroad

B-1: Period-wise Distribution of Studies on Social Distance and Related Fields conducted Abroad.

B-2: Distribution of Social Distance studies by Types.

B-3: Sample-wise Distribution of Empirical studies on Social Distance conducted Abroad.

B-4: Country-wise Distribution of Social Distance Studies Abroad.

* * *