The dissertation "Economics of Farm Production in Uttar Pradesh" was undertaken with a view to study the agricultural aspects of one of the most densely populated and agricultural oriented state of India. High productivity of the farm is widely related with its system of land use, existing land reforms and the available infra-structures. The present work is an attempt to study the important aspects of farm management, its land use, land reform, input output analysis, cost-benefit structure, viability of the farmers their assets and liabilities etc.

The dissertation highlights the problem of small and marginal farmers who constitute a very high percentage in the farm economy of the state. It also attempts to study the viability between large, medium and small farms the availability of irrigation facilities and its correlation with productivity on the various size of the farms, the marketing of farm produce and also many other important aspect of farm economy. The dissertation also put forth tentative suggestions which may be helpful in improving the farm economy in the State.

It is my pious duty to express my gratitude and thanks to the Vice-chancellor, the Registrar and the convenor, Research Degree Committee in Economics of Kanpur University and also to Dr. M.C.Jouhari, Principal, Feroze Gandhi College Raebarelli for permitting me to undertake this project.

I am grateful to the librarians of State Planning Institute, Lucknow, Board of Revenue Library, Library of the Directorate of Economics and Statistics, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, Library of the Giri Institute of Developmental Studies, Lucknow for providing me valuable materials for the work. I got valuable help from Library of the Jawahar Bhawan, Lucknow, Feroz Gandhi College Library, Lucknow University Library, Vidhan Sabha Library, Banaras Hindu University Library and the Kanpur University Library for which I am grateful to them. I am also thankful to the District and Block level officers of Rae Bareli who helped me greatly in conducting the survey. I am also grateful to the respondents spread over the sixteen villages in four tehsils of Rae Bareli district of Uttar Pradesh. In fact they deserve sincere appreciation and thanks for sparing their valuable time for the survey and also for cooperating with me.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. B.L. Agarwal, Chief, Institute of Applied Manpower Research, New Delhi for his valuable suggestions from time to time. I am also thankful to numerous friends and colleagues who have been constantly encouraging me for completion of this work. In this connection I also owe my gratitude to Dr. Ram Iqbal Singh Prof. and Head of Agricultural Economics Department, and also Dr. Sri Ram Reader in Agricultural Economics in C.S. Azad Agricultural University Kanpur for suggesting me at many stages of tabulation work.

There is no words to express my gratitude and thanks to my guide Dr. R.N. Srivastava who, inspite of all his preoccupations has been very helpful to me in completion of this project. But for his help, and guidance, its submission would not have been possible. I would be failing in my duty if I do not pay my respects to respected Smt. Sharda Srivastava (wife of my guide) whose inspiration and encouragement has always been a torch-bearer to me.

I also express my hearty thanks to my typist Mr. D.P. Singh and the Artist Sri Shafiq Hasan who has been active partner in completion of this arduous task.

At the last I would fail in my duty if, I do'nt express my deep sense of gratitude to my wife Shrimati Kamla Vinai who have been a constant source, of inspiration to me at all stages of my work.
