Acknowledgements

It has been my great good fortune to work under the supervision of Professor K. Narayana Chandran. I can never hope to express adequately my sense of gratitude for the inspiration and kindness I have received from him over the last seven years. I also wish to thank Dr. Veenu Chandran and Hemant Chandran for their generous hospitality.

I wish to thank Professor Sudhakar Marathe and Professor Hoshang D. Merchant for being on my Doctoral Committee and encouraging me in my work.

I have had the privilege of receiving comments and advice on my proposal from Professor S. Viswanathan and Professor Rupin Walter Desai. I am indebted to them for their kindness. Professor Sumanyu Sathpathy read my proposal and some early drafts of a Chapter and made suggestions for which I thank him. Professor Earl Rovit, Professor Craig S. Abbott, Professor Stephen Carl Arch, and Dr. Jim Egan of the United States have also looked at the proposal and made suggestions for which I thank them. Professor D. Venkat Rao helped me by kindly bringing me material from the United States that was not available in India. I wish to express my obligations to Professor A.V. Ashok, Professor Susie Tharu, Professor V. D. Singh, and Professor K. V. Tirumalesh for reading my proposal. I thank Jayanth and Rajiv for their wonderful friendship. Professor Sriraman took a kind interest in my work.
In the Institute, Murali, Sathya and other friends from the Association have showered their generosity on me. And my students in were simply superb. My thanks are also due to Mr. Chandrakanth, Mr. Dayanand, Mr Lingaiah and Mr. Sadguna Rao.

I would also like to thank my colleagues in the Centre for Materials Production, especially Professor S. R. Prahlad and Professor Paul Gunasekher. Anand has always been a gentle presence and his encouragement has been great. Professor G. Rajagopal, as the Chief Coordinator of the ITP programme has been unstinting in kindness and great as a colleague and friend. Sujatha's friendliness is always a joy. John encouraged me in his lovely voice and kindly read a part of my work and I gratefully and affectionately acknowledge his kindness.

My parents have always been a wonderful support and I thank them gratefully. My brother and sister stood by me as also did Pooja, Priyanka, and Rinku and Devender. I can only think of their patience with amazement and thankfulness. To Dr. T. V. Narayana, my gratitude for being a guiding figure.

There are many friends whose love and encouragement have helped sustain me. Theo, Usha, Shashi, Jai, and Sushi I prodded me on. Geeta was there through the "ups" and "downs." From Idola Fori I would like to thank Elango, Captain Anand, Nagesh, Dinakar Reddy and Siddharth, Maha and Srividya were always dependable to light the path with humour and affection, and were a solace in difficulties. Mr. David Maclean, Fulbright Scholar, brought with him affection, generosity, and material from the United States. Ms. Tejaswini is always a source of joy. The Tennetis, Hyma, who is quite simply angelic, Malini and Mrs Satyavathi were great support.

To Dr. K. Mallesham, my classmate, and a great friend, I am quite simply indebted for introducing me to Professor K Narayana Chandran, my Supervisor. I also appreciate his kindness in sending me material from the States.
