Investigations on Advanced Oxidation Processes as potential environment friendly techniques for the degradation of plastic pollutants

References

References

References

[27] The International POPs Elimination Project (IPEP), A study on waste incineration activities in Nairobi that release dioxin and furan into the environment, Environmental Liaison, Education and Action for Development (ENVILEAD), Kenya (2005).

[34] Use of Plastics in Road Construction, Centre for Innovations in Public Systems (CIPS) November 2014.

Investigations on Advanced Oxidation Processes as potential environment friendly techniques for the degradation of plastic pollutants

References

References

References

References

Investigations on Advanced Oxidation Processes as potential environment friendly techniques for the degradation of plastic pollutants

References

References

Investigations on Advanced Oxidation Processes as potential environment friendly techniques for the degradation of plastic pollutants

References

References

Investigations on Advanced Oxidation Processes as potential environment friendly techniques for the degradation of plastic pollutants

References

References

