The thesis dissertation marks the end of a long and eventful journey for which there are many people that I would like to acknowledge for their support and along the way. As almost all PhD thesis, this is no exception, as what the number of people that contributed to it is concerned and it is time to thank them for all they did for helping me to reach its goal.

To start with, my deepest thanks belong to my guide and supervisor Dr. Anita Das Ravindranath, without her creativity patient way of sharing knowledge, this work would have been impossible. I am privileged to have her as a source of knowledge and an authentic educator offering me wise feedback. Our numerous discussions and her timely suggestions have given me the most interesting insights into my research field. I would like to thank her for all the advice, encouragement, help and everything that I learned from her. I am also thankful for her encouragement during the times when my own faith grew thin.

I am thankful to Prof. (Dr). P. Natarajan, former Professor of Rajiv Gandhi Chair in Contemporary Studies for our many discussions and providing me advices and tips that helped me a lot in staying at the right track. My sincere thanks to him for keeping an eye on the progress of my work and being with me all the while with advices and provide the strength to take the right decisions at the right time. His extensive discussions about my work and interesting suggestions have been very helpful for this study.

I express my heartfelt gratitude to Prof. (Dr). I. S. Bright Singh, for his valuable suggestions and support as Co-guide and Doctoral Committee Member.

I am thankful to Prof. (Dr). Ammini Joseph, Director and Dr. Suguna Yesodharan, Former Director, School of Environmental Studies for their support and co-operation.

Acknowledgement
I express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Sarita G. Bhat, Doctoral Committee member and Subject expert, who provided a constant source of inspiration, encouragement and support in my efforts. Her ideas and concepts have had a remarkable influence on my entire career. I warmly thank her for his valuable advice and friendly help.

I was lucky to be a member of School of Environmental Studies (SES). I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to all Teachers of SES, since the atmosphere is very special; a place where everyone is friendly to everyone and everyone can be asked for help, with a feeling of oneness and unity. Both from the preference and also from the real time spent there, I considered SES my home.

My heartfelt thanks to Prof. (Dr). A. Ramachandran, Registrar, CUSAT and Professor in-charge, Rajiv Gandhi Chair in Contemporary Studies, for his constant support and valuable suggestions during my research work. I thank him for his patience, moral support, encouragement and co-operation.

"Shared suffering is halved suffering" and without the collective suffering of all my fellow PhD students together and mutual moral support, the pressure would have been unbearable. I acknowledge the extensive co-operation and spontaneous help received from my colleagues Arun Augustine and Kala K. Jacob.

Words fail to express my heartfelt gratitude to my colleagues Raghul Subin, Jayesh Puthumana, Hariprasad Narayanan, Aneesh Kumar K. V, Dr. Sindhu Sadanandan, Deepa. S. Nair and Rakhit Gopalan. The extensive discussion with them about my work and interesting suggestions received from them has been very helpful for this study.

Special thanks to Dr. S. Radhakrishnan, Central Coir Research Institute (CCRI) for his extensive co-operation and spontaneous help. Mr. Hanosh Mr. Anandan, Mr. Jayaraj and Mrs. Anu S Nair, CCRI, were always there with a helping hand throughout my research work. Words fail me in expressing my gratitude for them and I hope they understand my feelings. The great companionship, experiences and thoughts we shared are more valuable.

My sincere thanks to Dr. N. Chandramohanakumar, Department of Chemical Oceanography, for their support and inspiration during my research.

I have no words to express my feelings of gratitude all my friends in Environmental studies, for all the help rendered by them. I am also grateful to all staff members of School of Environmental Studies (SES) and Planning and academic sections, Cochin University of Science & Technology, for their help and co-operation, my sincere thanks to them for their assistance.

As always, it is impossible to mention everybody who had an impact to this work. However, there are those whose spiritual support is even more important. I have no words to extend my deep sense of gratitude to my parents, brother and all other family members who contributed their patience, moral support, encouragement, co-operation and blessings throughout this thesis work. Above all I would like to acknowledge the tremendous sacrifices that my parents made to ensure that I had an excellent education. For this and much more, I am forever in their debt.

Innumerable friends, colleagues and well-wishers were involved in this work, directly or indirectly. I thank Aju John K, K, Rojith. G, Rakesh V. B, Amarnath, Dipson P.T, Adhem Shahin and all my friends in Sarovar hostel for their generous help that has made this research work a reality. I extend my sincere gratitude and appreciation to all of them who made this thesis possible.

I am grateful to God Almighty for providing me all the blessings and strength of making this effort a success.
