ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In preparing this dissertation I have incurred many obligations and it is my duty to acknowledge them and express my deep gratitude.

First and foremost I am most grateful to Mother Teresa Women's University, Kodaikanal for affording me the opportunity for doing Ph.D. programme and extending to me all facilities, assistance and guidance to undertake and complete the Research work as a part of the programme.

I thank many intelligent minds and caring hearts who have facilitated the completion of my thesis. My guide and supervisor Dr. Mary T. David, Former HOD, Mother Teresa Women's University, possessing both of these, has spurred me on in my work right from its inception till the very end. Having initiated me into feminist studies during my M.Phil days, she sustained and developed my interest in the subject. Words cannot express my gratitude to her for her invaluable help at every stage of research work, for her penetrating observation and guidance in preparing and completing this work in time. I can only say that I have indeed been fortunate to have her as my guide.

I would like to express my deep-felt gratitude to Dr. Surya Kumari, Controller of Examination, Mother Teresa Women's University, Kodaikanal who has always been ready to give me valuable advice and suggestions.
I take this opportunity to thank other members of the faculty, particularly Dr. Geetha and Dr. Anne Lucas for their questions, discussion and constructive criticism on the occasion of the presentation of my seminar papers. I also thank Dr. Seetha Srinivasan HOD English Department, Stella Maris College, Chennai who gave me valuable suggestions during the Doctoral Committee Meeting.

I consider myself fortunate to have got an opportunity, in the beginning of this research programme to meet and interview the two great playwrights Girish Karnad and Vijay Tendulkar. I am grateful to them for this privilege and the time they gave me.

I thank my drivers Muthu, Sekar and Murugan, Peons Manohar, Ramesh and Balu, maids Rani, Ponnama and Ayah who were of great help to me during the period of my research.

Finally, words seem to fail me when I move on to thank all my dear ones for their love, support and encouragement, My mummy Mrs. Santha Nayar is the motivating force behind the whole programme. Her affectionate guidance, her sacrifice, constant encouragement, unfailing support and timely assistance in the domestic front saw me through, at every stage of my work. My father Mr. K.P.R. Nayar was a great help to me for my library works and proof-reading. I humbly seek their blessing for success. My husband Mr. N.M. Govindan's support sustained me even in times of anxiety and doubts. His whole hearted co-operation and his hard work in typing the whole thesis, his encouraging words and help extended in the domestic sphere gave me the confidence to forge ahead in this work.
My sincere thanks to my sister Mrs. Vijaya Rajasekaran who helped me whenever I was in difficulty. Lastly, I would be failing in my duty if I do not acknowledge the adjustment made by my dear children Sanjukta and Sanjeev. They were very cooperative and understanding through out period of my research. A big "Thank you" to Mrs. Sindhu of the Students Xerox for typing out the final draft of the thesis.

Mrs. VINAYA KUMARI
