Terrorism is a social disease, not an adaptation. The political system of a country can not progress till terrorism is wiped out, but terrorism can not be eliminated unless there is a political solution. The need of the hour is to find a political will to solve the problem, failing which the burden of ensuring peace and safety would lie on the shoulders of individuals.

Sudhir