“Live as if you were to die tomorrow. Learn as if you were to live forever.” Mahatma Gandhi With these words in my mind I had embarked on to a new phase in my life, my scientific research. As I look back, I see that I didn’t have to walk alone. Hence, I take this opportunity to thank all the people who joined me, walked besides me, helped me along my way and were instrumental in completion of the work for my doctoral thesis.

This thesis would not have been written without the able guidance of my supervisor, Dr. Arun Kumar Sharma who encouraged and challenged me throughout this academic program. I express my sincere gratitude towards him as he helped me through different problems that I faced during the course of this project, for his valuable inputs and correcting my doubts. His countless suggestions, constant encouragement and support have always been inspiring for me.

I express my sincere thanks to Prof. I. Dasgupta, Head of the Department, for providing all the necessary facilities to carry out the work. I am also thankful to all the teachers, Prof. J.P. Khurana, Prof. A. Grover, Prof. P. Khurana, Prof. Madan Mohan and Dr. S. Kapoor, Dr. G K Pandey, Dr. S. Raghuvaanshi and Dr. S K Agrawal for their constant support during my Ph.D. tenure.

I convey my gratitude to Dr. Manoj Sharma, Dr. Rita Sharma, Dr. Amol Solanke, Dr. Monica Bansal and Dr. Prasant Dansana for their encouragement and patience that helped me learn the fine nuances of experimental work.

I am grateful to my colleague Dr. Reema Mishra and Dr. Adwaita Parida without whose help and support in this thesis would have been a distant reality. They not only helped me in execution of my experiments but also stood firmly by my side in extreme odds. Their counseling and advices during my professional lows never let me break down. Their care and concern about my lunch during my hectic experimental schedules form a part of the sweet memories of my Ph.D tenure.

I am also grateful to Dr. Rahul Malik, Amit, Gitanjali, Heena, Amrapali, Anuj and Madhvi for their persistent support during my Ph.D tenure. I am also thankful to Ashok Triwari for his kind support.

The help of Mrs Shashi Mehta, Dr. Neena C Chowdhury, Mrs. Neelam Bedi and Mrs. Renu Dhawan and the other administrative and non-administrative staff of DPMB is acknowledged for assistance and guidance.

It has been well said by Henry Ford that “Profit is a by-product of work; happiness is its chief product”. I am really short of words to express my sincere gratitude from the bottom of my heart to my Jiji and Fufaji who always acted like a strong pillar for me with their full support, love, affection and utmost care. My special thanks also goes to my parents, elder brothers and younger sister for their support and love.

I am lucky and grateful to have a husband in Pankaj. I thank him for believing in me, being my strength, for his love and forgiveness, for sharing the good and bad times together, for his time and patience to hear me and last but not least, for being my best friend. The ever smiling face of my bundle of joy Bhavya, always encouraged me to work hard under any circumstances.

The financial help provided by UGC SAP Govt. of India is duly acknowledged.

Last but not the least; I want to thank the almighty whose mere thought always rejuvenated me with inspirational energy.
