BIBLIOGRAPHY

Primary Sources

---. The Lost Son and Other Poems. New York: Doubleday, 1948;
---. Words for the Wind: The Collected Verse of Theodore Roethke.
---. The Far Field. New York: Doubleday, 1964; London: Faber and Faber, 1965.
---. The Collected Poems of Theodore Roethke. New York: Doubleday,
---. Dirty Dinkey and Other Creatures: Poems for Children. Ed. Beatrice
---. The Contemporary Poet as Artist and Critic. Ed. Anthony Ostroff.
---. On the Poet and his Craft: Selected Prose of Theodore Roethke.
Secondary Sources

Books

Articles

Buffel, Helen T. "'I Knew a Woman.'" Explicator 24 (May 1966): Item 78.

---. "Martyr to a Motion Not His Own: Theodore Roethke's Love Poems." Ball State University Forum 16.2 (1975): 71-75.

McCawley, Dwight L. "Roethke's 'I Knew a Woman.'" Explicator 37.3 (Spring 1979): 9-11.

Seymour-Smith, Martin. "Where is Mr. Roethke?" Black Mountain Review 1 (Spring 1954): 40-47.

Smith, Nancy Ann. "Roethke's 'Where Knock Is Open Wide.'" Explicator 44.3 (Spring 1986): 59-60.

★★★