ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I would like to thank the Almighty God for his all-rounded help directed towards me from the very beginning to the completion of this thesis. In addition, there have been many magnificent and relevant people who really have provided support and helpful assistance to me in the preparation and completion of this thesis. It would be impossible to list all of their names here. However, I’d like to take this opportunity to extend my heartfelt appreciations and thanks to all of them. My extraordinary thanks are due to the following personalities.

First, my special thanks go to my guide and mentor Prof. Gara Latchanna, Professor of Education and Head of the Department of Education, Andhra University, Visakhapatnam for his close follow-up, constructive comments and encouragements from the onset of the study until the completion. Without whose unreserved efforts and leading role, the successful completion of the present study would have been difficult.

Second, I would like to express my sincere thanks to staff members of Haramaya University (HU) belonging to the Departments of Biology and Education for their valuable professional comments and suggestions on the items prepared for data collection. Furthermore, the same individuals were involved during the validity (Relevant Coefficient) and Reliability estimation processes of the data collecting tools. At this juncture, my special thanks are due to Jeylan Wolyie (Asso. Prof) and Firehiwot Tilahun (head, public relations) lecturers, Department of Foreign Language and Literature, HU, for their taking time to scholarly comment and rectify technical, grammatical and content blunders of the questionnaires.

Third, I am very glad to convey my warm gratitude to all respondent students, teachers, Principals, Parent-Teachers’ Associations, ICT Center Coordinators, and Regional Education Bureau heads for their willingness and high cooperation shown in providing me the required data through questionnaires, interviews and Focus Group Discussions. In connection to this, I am thankful to students and Biology teachers of Haramaya secondary and preparatory school for their willingness to be involved in the pilot study of the present study.

Fourth, I express my sincere gratitude to Haramaya University (HU) for its arranging me vehicle during data collection, allowing me to use stationary materials and sponsoring of round-trip plane tickets.

Fifth, I am highly indebted to the following important HU personalities for their priceless collegial encouragements and professional supports: (1) Negussie Dechassa (Dr., Vice president for research and extension) and his family, (2) Belayneh Legesse (Dr., Vice president for administration and student affair), (3) Abi Tadesse (Dr. Dean, College of Natural and Computational Sciences) and his family (4) Sirak Demelash (Dr., Lecturer, Education expert), (5) Tsedeke Lambore (Lecturer/statistician) (6) Shibru Temesgen (Lecturer/statistician), (7) Fresenbet Zeleke (Head, department of Agri-business) (8) Yimane Aklile (driver and field assistant), (9) Teshome Urge (Driver) and (10) Nuria Mohammed (secretary).

Sixth, I thank all the non-academic staff members of Department of Education, Andhra University, for their assistance in the office work. In addition, I feel pleasure to express my sincere thanks to all the academic staff members belonging to the same Department for their moral support and creating a congenial atmosphere during my study.

Last, but not least, I would like to owe a great debt to my family members, especially to my beloved wife Adugna Tefera, for her patience, love and persistent encouragement and my elder brother Tekahun Basha for his invariable all-rounded support throughout my study.

(Garkebo Basha Abo)