ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

No work of any significance or meaning can be accomplished solely through individual enterprise. Individual enterprise can bear fruit only when many others extend selfless support out of a sense of belonging, friendship, kinship, love and responsibility. This research project too would not have seen the light of the day if it had not been for the love and support of many.

It is my pious duty to acknowledge the role of all those who at various stages and in different ways contributed, supported, encouraged and sometimes for its own good chastised this manuscript which is published under my name.

First and foremost I bow my head before the almighty God and Guru ji who’s unseen and providential presence made me brave enough to overcome the most formidable difficulties to complete my research work.

Next to god only and above all else is my academic mentor Dr. Birinder Pal Singh, who is guiding light behind not this research project but my entire career as a student. His experience and sagacity gave an orientation and direction to precariously touch and go plans of mine. It requires little prescience on my part to say that he will continue to remain the fountain head of inspiration for all times to come.

I will remain deeply indebted to Prof. Bhupinder Singh, for giving my premature and inchoate ideas a concrete shop in the initiate and tentative moments. His guidance and advice at the initial level enabled me to develop an understanding and clarity of the subject.

I express my heartfelt thanks to Dr. Deepak Kumar for guiding me. In spite of his busy schedule, he spent considerable time with me on my thesis. I will also remain beholden to the faculty members of the Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology, for their constructive criticism and invaluable suggestions which went a long way in enriching my research work. My heartfelt gratitude also goes out to the non-teaching staff for their positive outlook and continuous assistance. A special thanks to Prof. Savraj Raj Singh.

This thesis would not have been possible without the support and co-operation of respondents and panchayat members in three selected villagers for my research.
I reserve my deepest gratitude for my parents Mr. Ashok Lamba and Mrs Rani Lamba, who have always been pillars of strength and motivation. Whatever strength and motivation I possess is derived from my mother.

I consider myself lucky to have great brother and bhabi as my motivators. They always concerned me and encouraged me during my work. I am really thankful to my sister Preeti and jiju for loving me and supported me in completing my work.

A word of thanks to my closest friend and motivators Jaspal, Roopkamal and Vimal, for their kind help during my work. Anandita, I am grateful to you in every possible way and hope to keep up our relation healthier in the future.

A word of thanks would be in place for my nephew Gokul and Kuval and to coming niece.

I owe a great deal to Dr Harvinder Singh Bhatti, Professor and Head, Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology for his generous support, inputs and pragmatic approach that made me overcome many encumbrances in the course of my work.
