CONTENTS

1. Introduction:
   Background to appropriations: setting out the area. ........................................... 1

2. Chapter I
   Racialising the 'Other':
   European Indology and the transformation of history ........................................... 13

3. Chapter II
   Tilak and Ranade: Conservatives Wrestling with History ........................................ 55

4. Chapter III
   Ramabai and Phule: Innovative history and rejection of tradition ......................... 90

5. Conclusion
   Raising further questions for history: the south Asian context .......................... 127

6. Bibliography ........................................................................................................ 134