Acknowledgement

Life is glorious struggle, which has many important gates to be opened and trekked successfully towards the destination. One such gate, which I had opened and entered few years back was my Doctoral studies. On the way there were many surprises, happiness and equal amount of sorrow. But the beauty lied in facing and taking all in equal measures and not swayed by any one of them. It will be unfair on my part if I do not acknowledge the part played by various people in helping me to trek this journey and complete it successfully.

At the outset, I would never forget one person who had been all through this trek and gave me the required confidence and belief in myself through her patience, cooperation, concern and the right kind of advice, which made the trek a memorable one. It is also my firm belief that very few persons pursuing this mammoth trek of Doctoral research are gifted with a guide like mine. Therefore I sincerely thank my supervisor Prof. Kiran Saxena.

The following persons had also contributed in their own ways towards my destination.

Prof. Khalim Bahadur, Centre for South Asian Studies, JNU, the better half of my guide who not even once has not shown the door for me but only opened kindly to let me pass through.

I would like to thank Prof. S. N. Jha, Centre for Political studies, JNU, in helping with the methodology, which was useful in planning my fieldwork.

Dr. Sudha Pai, Dr. Bishnu Mahapatra and Dr. Gurpreet Mahajan, Centre for Political Studies, JNU, for their encouraging words.

Mr. Gajendran, Centre for Political Studies, JNU, who had the gifted nature of boosting the confidence of whoever comes to him and making them feel happy and energetic.

Dr. Helen Sekar, Fellow, National Labour Institute, Noida, forever helping nature and sweet demeanour in encouraging young researchers like me.

Mr. Vidyasagar holds a very special place in my efforts to pursue the fieldwork for which I will be always thankful.

Dr. Nallan, Director of ‘Najeevan Trust’, Tirunelvelli, in helping with my field work and assisting in all possible ways when I was in need in Tirunelvelli.

Dr. Nagaraj of MIDS, Chennai, of spending his time in enlightening me about the intricacies of my topic.

I would like to thank Dr. Andal Damodaran, Honorary President of ICCW, Chennai, and Symon, the Programme Officer of ICCW in Vellore by his friendly and cooperative nature in helping with my fieldwork.

Dr. Kailesh Satyarthi, Chairman, SAACS, New Delhi, inspite of his busy schedule never discourages researcher like me and helps accordingly.

Lally, Inspectress of labour, Tirunelvelli, for the concern and help, which is rare for a Government Official of her stature.
Dr. Lawrence Prabhakar, MCC, the person who has been enlightening me about the developments in the academic field, which made me to take some important decisions in life.

Dr. Surendren, MCC, the energetic companion I had in my Masters days, to whom I should thank for providing the insights about many things.

Dr. Aloysius, the one whose advice helped me in the finishing stages of my thesis.

Soumen Bagchi-‘Jettu’, who made me to change the perception about life and taught many things, which I was unaware. I really indebted to him and will always value his friendship in times to come.

Parivelan—my friend for years, who has seen me in different shades and shapes and had cope up with his patience and adaptability, gifted characteristics of his own. A special thanks also goes Meenal for being a kind host.

Rakesh Bishi the person from whom I learnt that appearance is deceptive. He is the one of the few persons, I admire for his risk taking abilities and his varied interest, which is not easy to detect by average minds.

Banerji ‘chakka’ whose youthful and spirited nature has always been a influencing factor which made me to perform certain tasks which later served as eye opener to me.

‘Burra’ Srinivas, although his name signifies of being ‘head’, in reality his unassuming and pleasing personality is one, which is hard to follow. I should thank him for making my last few days of my travel in JNU a memorable one.

Kundan my eternal friend who has the uncanny knack of suggesting me the right kind of things, which were always proved to be beneficial.

Prabaharan, my well wisher and friend, who I can count always, a die hard optimist and workholic whose influence works on others and help them perform better.

Robin—my friend in God, who has time and again reinforced my faith and belief.

P. A. Mathew ‘the eternal hero’, the one was with me in the journey sharings the pains and pleasure which I am sure will remain for many a years to come.

Dr. Vikram Singh Sirola, ‘knight shinning in armour’, clever and intelligent, more in search of the philosophy in life which made me to alter certain fixed perspectives.

Bharathi of ‘Saarthak’ my friend in need, for her help that helped me sail through the rough pastures.

Dr. Mahananda, wise and worthy friend in whom I was able to realise the value of patience and calmness.

Thirunavakarasu-‘Thaadi’ for his timely companionship, which carried me forward.

Jeyaselvin Nadar, the man from ‘Thengaipattinam’, who helped me in his own sweet way.

Raghu Ram, Dr. Bobby— the eternal Bachelor, Karna, Madan, Khalid, Naseer—the Machiavellian Politician, P. C. Babu—my little Marxian friend, Shyama—the Kid, Anil Mathew and Chandrima, Anbu-the computer ‘wiz’, Gilbert, Saroj, Saktivel, Sobho, Chatto, Som, Melvi, Raj Mohan, Sarveshwaran.

I would like to thank all the Government and non-Government officials and the people of both Karuvanda and Virudampattu villages, particularly the cute little girl angels in the homes who cooperated with me all through my fieldwork.

I would like to mention my gratitude to the Institute of objective studies (IOS), an N.G.O. in roster with UNESCO, Delhi for providing me the Ph.D. scholarship for a year, 1997-98. I would also like to thank the Indian Council of Social Sciences and Research (ICSSR) for their continuous encouragement and support through the ‘Doctoral Fellowship’ from 1999 to 2001. Indeed it was a mixture of pride and confidence which boosted my Ph.D. research.

Had it not been the help, encouragement, faith shown towards my capability by my father, my sister and brother-in-law for bearing with me for the time I had taken to complete this journey of studying, it would not be possible for me to reach this far. Therefore I sincerely thank them and hope they would always be by my side.

Last but not the least I thank God who had shown his mercy in many ways without which I may not have reached the end of this trek towards the completion of this Doctoral thesis.
