ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The challenge of understanding the evolving dynamics of agrarian relations in rural Orissa, undoubtedly one of the least developed parts of the country, was the key motivating factor behind this study. During the course of the research, I have received generous help from different quarters.

First of all, I would like to thank my supervisor Prof. G.K. Chadha for his support, guidance and encouragement. In spite of his busy schedule, he has always shown keen interest on the progress of the study. I am also grateful to all my teachers at the Centre for the Study of Regional Development, J.N.V., particularly to Prof. G.S. Bhalla, Ashok Mathur, S.K. Thorat, Aslam Mahmood, Amitabh Kundu, Ravi S. Srivastava and R.K. Sharma for their suggestions and help at various stages of the work.

I have also benefited from discussions with Prof. R.S. Rao, Kishore C. Samal, Sakti P. Padhi, Golak B. Nath and Dr. Srijit Mishra on various aspects of the Orissan economy. My colleagues at the Department of Economics, Arunachal University have always been a source of strength for me. I am particularly thankful to Dr. N.C. Roy for his comments on earlier drafts of some of the chapters. I think I cannot really thank Dr. Vandana Upadhyay enough for her enthusiastic support and warm encouragement.

Among friends, Dr. Amarnath Mohanty, Md. Abdu Salam, Saroj K. Mohanty, Lingaraj, Suresh Sahu, Anoop Satpathy and Bhima Rout have supported me in various ways. During the course of my field survey I received generous help from Lokadrusti, Kharar, Manav Kalyan Pratishthan, Sambalpur and Vikalpa, Kantabanji. I am grateful to all these organizations, particularly to their field staff. Mr. Subhransu Shekhar Mishra, Dr. Prasanta Nanda and Mr. Hrudanand Mahanand provided considerable help during the field survey. I take this opportunity to thank the villagers of Kainsir, Mahada and Amlapali for their warm hospitality and cooperation during the field survey.

I am thankful to Niranjan Sarangi and Partha Pratim Sahu for their help in data processing and computing and to Dr. Archana Upadhyay and Dr. Ashok K. Behuria for their valuable editorial inputs. I am immensely thankful to Prof. Atul Sarma, Vice Chancellor, Arunachal University and Dr. KK, Dwivedi, former Vice Chancellor, Arunachal University for their encouragement and support.

I am grateful to the staff of the Central Library and Exim Bank Library, J.N.V. and the libraries of Indian Statistical Institute, New Delhi, N.K.C. Centre of Development Studies, Bhubaneswar, Arunachal University, Itanagar and Sambalpur University. I am grateful to Mahender Rana and Birender Dubral of M/s Sanjay Photostat for their prompt and efficient help in typing.

Lastly, I want to thank my family members for their support and sacrifices. Aparimita has always been a source of strength and courage for me. I thank her for standing by me through all these years.

Needless to add, I alone am responsible for all the limitations of the study.

Deepak Kumar Mishra