Acknowledgement

At this juncture I would like to acknowledge the contribution of all those people who have helped me accomplish this work.

First and foremost my heartfelt thanks go to my mentor and PhD supervisor Dr. Chetan Chitnis, without his forethoughts this work would not have been possible. I owe many debts on the professional as well as personal front to him. His intellectual prowess, scientific acumen, and rational thinking helped me in evolving as a keen research student. His ever optimistic attitude during the course of the experiments imparted the required stimulus when the going got tough. He is indeed the best teacher I have ever known. His contributions on the personal front have helped me in adapting myself better to the research environment. I thank him for everything; working under his supervision was indeed a wonderful experience.

I would like to thank Prof. V. S. Chauhan, director of ICGEB, for giving me an opportunity to pursue PhD in the great working atmosphere at ICGEB.

Furthermore, I would like to thank Dr. Shams Yazdani, Dr. Amit Sharma, Dr. Pawan Malhotra, Dr. Dinkar Sahal, Dr. Asif Mohammad, Dr. Deepak Gaur, Dr. Sam and Dr. K. Natrajan for their help throughout my stay. Their invaluable suggestions, whenever needed, are gratefully acknowledged.

I would like to acknowledge Dr. Alfredo Mayor, collaborator of SEVMAL study and a very good friend. I thank him for everything specially for help with statistical analysis.

I thank all the lab members for everything. Thanks to Anup, who introduced me to the research on cytoadherence, Shailja for scientific discussions and guidance, Arindam, for help during lab rotation, Sanjeev and Rushdi for Tandoori and Biryani dinners respectively, Kalyan, Suchi and Anand for frequent PBS (Party at Ber Sara), Shikha and Nivedita for valuable suggestions and affection. I also thank Rukmini, Abhisheka, Sonal, Faiza, Urwashi, Swati, Sweta, Khalid, Shilpi, Monal, Neha, Shivani and Vedant for their all their help and keeping the lab atmosphere lively. Special thanks to my friend and foe Alam, it was nice working with him for all these years. I thank Haseeb, Bijender and Amel who were always willing to help.

I would also like to acknowledge ICGEB administrative staff members for all their efforts making all the life easy for the students. I thank Sangramji, Narendraji and Ajay for their never ending help.

I thank all ICGEB lab members, especially malaria and structural biology people for their support and generous sharing of reagents and instruments, whenever needed.
Life's canvas often goes off shades, but spattering of colors brings it to life with its myriad shades in the presence of those that one meets while coursing through life. For me, my closest friends and colleagues did the same. I thank Kalyan, Prashant, Sumona, Viru, Kalaywani, Deepti, Kris, Shashank, Grace, Aseem, Kheim, Subhasis, Meha, Namita, and Mwanidade. I give all of them my heartiest thanks for everything, for their support, for all the moments we shared together.

I extend my gratitude to my friends at JNU, namely, Kashif, Shiju, Manish, Giang, Rehan, Rakesh, Intiyaz, Mandvi, Swati, Vinay, Hemlata, Jawaid bhai, and Shadab bhai. I felt like in home with them.

I would like to thank Talha, Ram, Mudassir, Pavnish, Ubaid, Manzar and Amjad bhai, who generously kept their hostel rooms open for me.

Last but not the least; I am grateful to my parents, especially my mother for their endless sacrifices and abundant love. I thank them for everything, their encouragement, care and belief in me. Every successful man is thankful to a woman, so do I. I thank Firdos for her love and care that made this daunting task a success. A special note for Umar, for bringing spice to our life. My special gratitude is due to Javed, Shagufta Apa and her family for their loving support.

I thank CSIR for financial support.