Acknowledgment

A journey is easier when you travel together. Interdependence is certainly more valuable than independence. This thesis is the result of three and half years of work whereby I have been accompanied and supported by many people. It is a pleasant aspect that I have now the opportunity to express my gratitude for all of them.

The first person I would like to thank is my supervisor Prof. R.P. Das. I have been in his supervision since 2003 when I started my PhD. During these years I have known Prof. Das as a sympathetic and principle-centered person. His overly enthusiasm and integral view on research and his mission for providing ‘only high-quality work and not less’, has made a deep impression on me. I owe him lots of gratitude for having me shown this way of research. He could not even realize how much I have learned from him.

My colleagues of Institute of Management, Pt. R.S. University, Dr. A.K. Srivastav, Mr. Gopal Krishna Deshmukh and Mr. Sushil Indurkar, all gave me the feeling of being at home at work. They also substantially contributed to the development of this work. I would like to thank Dr. A.K. Srivastav, for our many discussions and providing me advises and tips that helped me a lot in staying at the right track. I would also like to thank Mr. Gopal Deshmukh and Mr. Sushil Indurkar who have read parts of my thesis and provided me valuable comments.

I would also like to gratefully acknowledge the support of some very special individuals. They helped me immensely by giving me encouragement and friendship. They mirrored back my ideas so I heard them aloud. I would like to thank Shri. Hemant Sharma whose inquisitiveness and ability of asking questions have always helped me in finding new avenues of research. Especially the strict and extensive comments and the many discussions and the interactions with him had a direct impact on the final form and quality of this thesis. I express my deep sense of gratitude to Ms. Anita Toppo for helping me understand how a thesis can look better with a little effort with key board, mouse and track points. I would also like to thank Mr. Pradeep Sharma for his comments and contradictions that helped me to maintain my interest in my work. I would like to express my deep sense of gratitude to my friends Ms. Priya, Ms. Nikhat, Mr. Pradeep Pillai, Mr. Ashish Dwivedi, Mr. Narender Minhas, Lt. Manoj Mahawar and Mr. Mithilesh Pandey for being at the receiving end of my tantrums and misbehavior. All these people have been a constant part of my life with their full potential from the inception to the finality of this work of mine.

I feel a deep sense of gratitude for my father and mother who formed part of my vision and taught me the good things that really matter in life. I am grateful for my brothers Sandeep and Sudeep who have been constant part of development of my thought process.

I would also like to thank the staff of Institute of Management Shri Keju Ram Thakur, Shri Sunil Namdeo and Shri M. Patel for their support.

This thesis is the end of my long journey in obtaining my degree in Management. I have not traveled in a vacuum in this journey. There are various people who made this journey easier with words of encouragement and more intellectually satisfying by offering different places to look to expand my theories and ideas. I thank all of them whose name my small memory has failed to mention.

The chain of my gratitude would be definitely incomplete if I would forget to thank the first cause of this chain, using Aristotle's words, 'The Prime Mover'. My deepest and sincere gratitude for inspiring and guiding this humble being.
