ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In a humble attempt of mine many people, my close friends and well-wishers helped me by way of enlightening and clarifying my imperfect ideas on T.S. Eliot and his scholarly use of the Biblical symbols in his work. It is practically difficult to make a verbatim acknowledgement of all the sources of information. But however it is a pleasure to acknowledge the generous help of those who confirmed my studies both on T.S. Eliot and the Holy Bible. Here I wish to sing the first note of thanks and praises to God and Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost who inspired me at every step and stage of my doctoral study since it was a spiritual task, for me, with literary inputs. My soul and all that is within me praise the 'Still point of the turning World'. I owe thanks to the learned scholars and authors of several books I have read through. I acknowledge the generous help of the staff of the ASRC, Hyderabad. Equally significant has been the help of the library staff of the Govt. Science, Arts and Commerce College, Durg M.P. I express gratitude to Dr. A.Q. Khan and Dr. K.J. Chandani for the suggestions that have given directions in shaping this thesis. I owe special thanks to my respected and learned supervisor Dr. S.B.K. Murthy for his scholarly suggestions, direction in enlightened manner and encouragement during the process of doctoral study and writing. (Here I confess the inadequacy of my words to express my thanks and gratitude for his generous help, and sacrifice. I can pay him nothing in return but for him and his family I thank God who only can reward him with a proper crown).
If it is not ridiculous to thank a part of one's own life, then I owe special thanks to my dear wife, Abha, who graciously tolerated a piles of books and papers and the many hours spent with them instead of with her. I would like to express my inexpressible thank to my mother, Elma, and father, Rev. Theophilus Singh, who have endured every kind of hardship and helped me in thousands of ways in all the process of doctoral study.

At the final stage of my study the family circumstance compelled me to leave home on July 16, 1990 and stay with my sisters for two months after July 23, 1990. So I owe thanks and gratitude to my eldest sister, Toran, who encouraged and comforted me whenever I was discouraged and frustrated. On August 25, 1990 I had high fever and she treated me with motherly love and care. I am also very much indebted to my elder sister, Yahuti, and my niece, Deepika. I wish to thank Rev. P.Z. Singh and Mrs. Vasti Singh for their cooperation and encouragement, too.

I owe deep gratitude to Miss Padma who typed this thesis and Mr. J.J. Manuel, Sharp Copiers, 4, Patel Complex, Padmanabhpur, Durg. Well I must sing the last note of thanks to the Lord again. To the true God be glory for ever and ever. Amen.
