ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

First and foremost, I record my deep sense of indebtedness to Late Dr R J. Chandani, Durg (M.P.) who gave me required moral support and practical assistance without which my exploration would have foundered. As a student, I shall always remember the intellectual stimulation and encouragement he provided me but did not live to see the completion of the typescript.

I owe very special thanks to Dr A. R. Khan, my mentor and guide without whose help this work would not have seen the light of day. I cannot adequately express my indebtedness to him for his moral and emotional support when I found myself in a maze by the untimely demise of late Dr R. J. Chandani.

I am also grateful to Dr R S Pathak, Professor Shri Hari Singh Gour Vishwavidyalaya, Sagar (M.P.). He helped me to draw diagrammatic illustrations and made me learn the traits of 'Gynaeo-Linguistics'. It may also be noted that Gynaeo-Linguistics is a phrase coined by the illustrious Professor.

My major intellectual debt is to Prof. S. Majumder, Head and Prof. Durga Mahavidyalaya, Raipur (M.P.) who provided insights and shaped the writing of this thesis. My indebtedness to him is in evidence practically in every chapter of this study.

This work would not have been possible without the enormous help of my father-in-law Dr P C Kamra, Retd. Principal Model college of science, Raipur. He made a painstaking exercise of proof reading the manuscript. I also express my deep sense of gratitude to my husband who worked for late hours, computerising the manuscript, and so it was more than welcome and happy collaboration. My appreciation also to my mother-in-law for her concern for me and of the entire family members during hours of exhaustion and mental strain.
Not least, I am indebted to the library staff of Durga Mahavidyalaya for their sincere help and their personal kindness in providing required books on short notice. I also thank Mr Sushil Patle who compiled the thesis faultlessly.
