Finally, I have the proud pleasure and privilege to submit my Ph. D. Thesis and when I look back, I recall all those people whose whole hearted support and cooperation has enabled me to successfully complete my research study. Even though it is quite difficult to express my humble feelings towards all these sources of inspiration, I take this opportunity to publically thank all of them and mention my deep sentiments and sincere gratitude; and place on record their enormous contributions in ensuring benchmark quality of this research work.

At the outset, I express my profound sense of gratitude to the “Almighty – GOD” who helped me in this great endeavor by creating many great minds to guide, encourage and inspire me; and so many loving hearts to enlighten my path. With the continued blessings of the almighty, I could keep myself on the right track with the required focus, zeal and enthusiasm to complete this arduous task.

In an ecstasy of delight, I want to express my heartfelt gratitude towards my esteemed and revered Research Guide Dr. Kiran Pandya, Professor & Head of Dept. of HRD, Veer Narmad South Gujarat University, Surat (Gujarat) for his unmatched patience throughout my journey of Ph. D. Despite my false starts right from the Research Proposal submission stage to several mistakes and annoying laziness in crossing various stages of research to final submission of this thesis, he has always encouraged me and served as the real psychological support and morale booster. I am beholden to him in special measure and no words can convey my feelings of respect and regard for him for his abiding interest, incessant encouragement, painstaking efforts, valuable guidance and continued belief in my competencies during the course of my research work. He has been a great source of inspiration and strength for me, being coherent and concise, patient and passionate, and above all fatherly and friendly figure during my research work. Truly speaking, I could not have reached to this stage of submission without “KP’s” unending encouragement and endless support.
I would like to whole heartedly thank the honorable Shri Raj Gopal Sir, IAS, the then Managing Director & Vice Chairman of GSRTC; without whose kind consent, this pioneering research work would not have even taken off. He extended his full unreserved support by ensuring timely instructions to the Central Office officials to provide the required data. In this line, I am highly indebted to one special person who served as the real angel right from the start to finish of my research work – Shri A. K. Parmar Sir, the former DC of Surat Division and presently the Controller of Purchase (CoP) at the Central Office of GSRTC. With his missionary zeal, he spared his precious time as the DC at Surat division and provided valuable insights regarding the working pattern of GSRTC, the structure, the issues etc.; and also ensured the support of his known ones as the CoP at the Central Office of GSRTC, Ahmedabad. With his down to earth humble nature coupled with action oriented approach, he assisted me in crossing various hurdles related to my study; beyond the call of the duty. With him, it would not be out of place to heartily acknowledge the enormous contributions of Shri H. D. Buddhbhatti Sir – the Chief Statistician of GSRTC, who extended full support to my research work by timely providing the required databases of GSRTC and also for providing me valuable insights beyond reported facts and figures during personal conversations. His cooperation in providing the published and unpublished databases of GSRTC; and also for explaining the interpretation part of these databases; is noteworthy and very much appreciable. I also express my sincere thanks to Shri N. S. Patel - the former DC of Surat Division; Shri R. V. Malivad – the DC of Bharuch Division and Shri N. B. Sisodiya – the DC of Nadiad Division for sparing their valuable time to have long in-depth telephonic and personal conversations on numerous occasions; and be interviewed by me; and also for allowing me to conduct training sessions and interviews of the Drivers, Conductors and Mechanic Staff of their divisions.

Further, participation is considered to be the ‘elixir’ for the success of any process; and the same is true for my research work also. This study would not have been possible without the straight from the heart sort of unbiased responses of my valued respondents – the Drivers, Conductors, Driver-cum-Conductors and the Mechanic staff of Bharuch and Nadiad divisions of GSRTC. They really served as the backbone for this phenomenal research work with their honest participation in the pre-data collection period, in the training sessions as well as while filling up the questionnaires. I consider the time spent with them as the life time worth remembering moments and express my heartfelt thanks to all of them.

I am also thankful to Dr. Smruti Bulsari Madam, Asst. Professor in the MBA Programme at the Department of Business & Industrial Management, VNSGU, Surat-Gujarat for her valuable suggestions and remarks on the contents, formatting and language of the data collection instrument. Without her involvement, under the guidance of Dr. Kiran Pandya Sir, the data collection instrument would not have taken its final polished shape. One person who requires a special mention at this juncture is my ‘former student turned friend turned colleague re-turned friend’ - Nirav V. Majmudar, Asst. Professor in Finance at the CKSVIM, Vadodara for his much needed timely help in data analysis work.

I would also love to thank the ever courteous Librarians of several esteemed institutions who extended all sorts of help as and when I visited their libraries. These prompt, positive and polite librarians are from the Department of HRD, VNSGU, Surat-Gujarat; Central Library of VNSGU, Surat-Gujarat; Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad-Gujarat; Central Institute of Road Transport, Pune-Maharashtra; Asian School of Business Management, Bhubaneswar-Orissa; and XLRI, Jamshedpur-Jharkhand. Out of these also, the rejuvenated Departmental Library of Department of HRD of VNSGU, Surat has been of immense help. Stacked with several National and International level reputed journals, various Research Reports, textbooks and reference books; this Departmental Library has really served as the “Knowledge Hub” for me throughout the period of my research work. My entire research work, especially the Review of Literature section, has been immensely benefited and truly been the outcome of the easy, speedy and uninterrupted access to world renowned online databases, available at the Department of HRD. Truly speaking, having access to such a well developed library at the Departmental Level really served as a shrine for me as a researcher, and I am sure it will continue to increase its richness in times to come. Along with this, with the help of the hi-tech Computer Laboratory equipped with advanced Statistical Softwares at the Department of HRD, I have been able to complete the data analysis work easily and quickly with surety regarding its accuracy. So, I express my heartiest thanks to all those who have been instrumental in developing such International level rich Library and Computer Laboratory at the Department of HRD by virtually working day-in and day-out.

Further, my research work has immensely benefited from the valuable suggestions and comments of esteemed judges, other researchers and academicians during research paper presentations at the National and International Conferences held at several esteemed institutions of our country. So, I thank them also.

At this juncture, I express my heartfelt gratitude and thanks from the bottom of my heart to my beloved parents – Shri Ghanshyambhai and Shri Nirmalaben, who always inspired me to go an extra mile and showed continued faith in my abilities. They even tolerated my annoying isolation from and absence in many important social gatherings during the entire period of my research work. My father Shri Ghanshyambhai has been the real positive pressure creator for initiating and completing this research work. I honestly don’t know what I did to deserve them as my parents in my life.

And, when it comes to my dear and near ones, how can I forget my ‘life time loving girl friend’ – my wife Snehal and my cutest darling daughter Paalav, who sacrificed their quality time and spent a part of their life in solitude when I was frequently in and out in pursuit of my research. With special mention and pride, I gratefully acknowledge their unconditioned love, patience, sleepless nights and tiring road journeys with me during the course of my research work. They tolerated my annoying self chosen loneliness and always supported me during those difficult moments.

Finally, I extend my sincere thanks to all those who have been instrumental - directly or indirectly for completing my research work with a sense of utmost satisfaction.
