Acknowledgements

Every work, specially the type of work, needed in pursuing Ph.D. cannot be a work of an individual alone. The work that I am presenting in this thesis could not have been possible without the kind contribution of an endless list of friends, family members, my learners & my teachers, library and other members of different institutions. I acknowledge their contribution since the restriction of space stops me to name everyone individually. I acknowledge the special contribution of Prof. K.K. Jain for being a psychological support throughout the work. The support and inspiration provided by Prof. Bharati Baveja and Prof. Namita Rangnathan had helped me immensely. Dr. Vandana Saxena’s contribution has greatly helped me in my work.

The library staff from CIE and NCERT, especially Dr. Padhamanabhan (Librarian) from CIE and Mrs. Pooja Jain (Assistant Librarian from NCERT) assisted me personally in tapping various resources needed for the work.

Dr. Jyoti Kohli took pains in going through the draft for editing language. I acknowledge her contribution. My friend Deepak assisted in compiling, scanning etc and Vikas helped me in final formatting the document along with some valuable language suggestions. I acknowledge their contribution to the work. Yash, Shantanu, Chandrashekhar, Divya and Karishma assisted in computer related work. They deserve my love and thanks for the same.

Dr. Prabhajot S. Kulkarni, Principal, M.V. College of Education, Delhi University and Dr. Neeraj Priya, Principal, Guru Ram Dass College of Education, GGSIP University gave me the liberty and opportunity to pursue my work. I would like to thank both of them. Without the participants, the work cannot be imagined. My special thanks goes to the B. Ed. learners of M.V. College of Education and Guru Ram Dass College of Education. I also thank, the Head & Dean, DRC and BRS for taking appropriate decisions promptly whenever those were needed.

My mother Mrs. Beena Sharma, my brother Vivek Sharma and my sister Archana stood by me through every thick and thin during pursuance of this work. They are as much part of my work as I am.
I dedicate this work to my father Late Sh. Chamal Lal, whose last words, before he left us for heavenly adobe were to see me completing this work successfully. It is still a pain in my heart that I could not complete this work in front of him.

Most respectfully & thankfully, my guide and mentor, Dr. Alka Behari, deserves my heartfelt gratitude for guiding & accepting me during my present work.

I acknowledge the blessings of the almighty for being there with me.

Rakesh Kumar

(Researcher)