I would like to express my special appreciation and thanks to my guide, Dr. Indira Shukla, Principal, Gokhale College Of Education, Parel for the continuous support of my Ph.D study and research, for her patience, motivation and enthusiasm. I want to express my sincere gratitude to the principals of all the schools where I conducted the EQ Test for my statistical analysis for having allowed to carry out the test and to the students who co-operated by answering the tests and thereby helping me to accumulate the necessary data for my study.

This thesis was cultivated out of a string of tête-à-tête with my husband, Benny John. He, with his inquisitiveness and insight brought me closer to understanding the rich complexity of my research work. His critical review helped moulding the work into one which is as precise and specific as it has turned out into now.
My daughter, Marina Benn has been my technical support system by taking care of the computerization of the entire research study. Her sincerity and dedication to this work deserve high appreciation and gratitude.

My son, Joel Ben John is the sole reason behind the ideation of pursuing a PhD. His constant words of encouragement and belief in me made this journey memorable.

I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to my students, Jijo Cherian and Gincy Cherian for their dedication and efforts in undertaking the humungous task of data entry without a complaint.

I wish to thank the Lord Almighty with all my heart for being the guiding light during my entire research work and enlightening me when in need of inspiration.
