Acknowledgements

There are many individuals, who have cooperated and assisted, in innumerable ways to this thesis. I owe special thanks to my supervisor Prof. Zoya Hasan, for her invaluable suggestions, continual guidance, support, and patience over the years. I am grateful to faculty members of the Centre for Political Studies, JNU: Shefali Jha and T.G Suresh, for providing critical comments on my initial synopsis, and several of my draft chapters. I would like to thank Priiti Darookha, from Programme on Women’s Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights (PWESCR), and the faculty at Institute for Social Studies (ISS), The Hague, Netherlands, for helping me in the initial period of formulation, and development of conceptual clarity, presented in this work. I also take this opportunity to thank Indrani Mazumdar, and Indu Agnihotri, from Centre for Women’s Development Studies (CWDS), New Delhi, for being supportive, and encouraging, of my research interests.

I am grateful to Mishra Ji, from CWDS; Kanchan, from the Women’s Studies Library in JNU; and the library staff of V.V. Giri National Labour Institute; National Commission for Enterprises in the Unorganised Sector, Indian Law Institute; and JNU Central Library, for being extremely cooperative and helpful in providing resources and photocopying.

Several organisations, and individuals, in their capacities, have given their substantive inputs, for the field-based work, in Ahmedabad. I would like to thank each of them, for their involvement, and contribution: Vipul Pandya, from Baandh Kaam Mazdoor Sangathan; Ramilla Ben, from SEWA, Ahmedabad; Mahesh Gajera, from Aajeevika Bureau; Anil Jhinjobaria, from the Contractor’s Association, Ahmedabad; Mr. V.N. Patel (Labour Commissioner, Industrial Safety and Health in Ahmedabad); Ms. Geeta Lal, and Mr. Sahu, from Mahatma Gandhi Labour Institute, in Ahmedabad; Meena Ben (trade union activist); Sanjay Bhai, from L&T company; Achyut Yagnik, from Centre for Social Knowledge and Action (SETU); Mr. Girish Patel (eminent human rights activist); Indira Hirway, and, Jeemol Unni. I am indebted to Geeta Ben, Daksha Ben, Mansingh Bhai, Sarifa Ben, Devu Ben, and Ratan Bhai, for introducing me to the field areas, and providing enormous support, for day-to-day interactions in the field. A special thanks, to Kavita, for offering me a home-base, and much needed love, and support, during my fieldwork, in Ahmedabad.
I would like to thank Mr. Subhash Bhatnagar and Ishwar, from Nirmaan Mazdoor Panchayat Sangam (NMPS); Rindhu, from Mobile Crèche’s; Yashika, and Sakshi, from SEWA, Delhi; Kamala Sankaran, from the Law Faculty in Delhi University; Arun Sahai, from Ahluwalia Contractors; Major Amar Nath, from the L&T training centre; Mr. R.P. Saini, co-ordinator of the National Institute of Construction Management and Research (NICMAR); Mr. Satnam, from Association of Builders, Delhi; Office of the Labour Commissioner, Delhi; and Dr. Tiwari, from Centre for Education and Communication (CEC), for their time, and inputs, which have added, new dimensions to the scope of this thesis. My interaction, in the field areas, was guided by, Atjumen Ben, and Mohan Lal Bhai, from SEWA, Delhi; Ramkali Ben, and Deepa, from NMPS. I am grateful for their time, and effort. I am indebted to the Rathee family, for their warmth, and generous hospitality, during the time of my fieldwork, in Delhi. I also take this opportunity to thank Maashi, and Dada, for their constant support throughout the entire period.

Friends have been extremely supportive and helpful, over the years, right from the initial period of formulation, fieldwork, upto, writing this thesis. I, especially thank Mathilda, Vivek, Shashi, Meenu, Kavita, Puloma, and Satya, for their concern and emotional support. Many thanks to Sushmita, Saharu, Ram, Sunayana, Vishal, Shruti, Tupur, Stefano, Nupur, Sharat, and Vikas, for research related help, typing, and performing several last-minute tasks. I am grateful to Arani Sinha, for editing, and Bhaskar, for formatting this work, despite their busy schedules.

This thesis would not have been possible without the love, and support, from my family, especially, Ma and Babonshona, for their constant encouragement, and optimism. I would like to thank Jyotsna Ji, for providing me comforts of home, while in Delhi, and K-5 Jungpura, my workspace, and ‘home away from home’. Lastly, I would like to thank Andromeda, for being my punching bag, in times of stress, and for her indispensible contribution to this thesis. Her eye for minute details has transformed the nature of this work.
