I am happy to present to Goa University the result of the research study which I carried out in fulfilment of the condition for the Ph. D. degree of Goa University. The thesis is the culmination of my work on the topic entitled “Salt and The Goan economy - A study of Goa’s Salt Industry and Salt Trade in the 19th and 20th Centuries during the Portuguese Rule”, which I took up for my Ph.D. degree course, extending for a period of more than five and half years. It was my interest in the economic history of Goa and knowledge of Portuguese language which I studied for eleven years during the Portuguese rule, that prompted me to take up this subject for my Ph.D. research and complete the work at the age when just two years are waiting for me to leave for good my teaching career. In the completion of this study, I am greatly indebted to a large number of individuals and institutions. First of all, I express my sincere gratitude to Prof. Dr. M.A. Shahi, Head of the Department of Economics of Goa University, who kindly allowed me to work under him as a research student and guided me all along, with his knowledge in the subject and helping hand. He was a constant source of inspiration for me. But for his encouragement, this thesis would not have seen the light of reality. I deeply acknowledge my gratitude to Principal M. S. Kamat of MES College of Arts and Commerce, Zuarinagar, for his wholehearted encouragement to my Ph. D. research work.

I am grateful to Dr. Prakashchandra Shirodkar, the Director of Goa Archives for the encouragement I received from him throughout the period of my research work. I, deeply, acknowledge the debt I owe to Dr. Celsa Pinto. Her research work has been a beacon light to me. Dr. Teotonio De Sousa, the then Director of Xavier Centre of Historical Research, Porvorim, suggested me the present subject for my Ph. D. research. I express my gratitude to him and also to the present Director of this renowned research centre in India, Father Dr. Charles Borges, for his encouragement to my research work. I place on record my gratitude towards the Xavier Centre of Historical Research, Porvorim, its library and staff, and, in equal measure, towards Goa Arquives, its Manuscripts Section, the library and staff, for their invaluable help in placing at my disposal all the necessary documents including manuscripts, printed books and other material which provided me the source material for my research work. It is also with deep sense of gratitude, I place on record my thanks to the Library of Goa University, the Central Library, Panaji, particularly its Rare Book Section, Gomant Vidyaniketan Library, the Library of MES College, Zuarinagar and the staff of all these institutions for their invaluable cooperation.

I am grateful to the Department of Economics of Goa University, its teaching and administrative staff, and, also, to the administrative staff of Goa University, in general, for their help and cooperation from the day I registered myself as a research student of the University. My cousin-brother Shri. Sanjeev Shambhu Nagvenkar car-rried out the job of typing the entire draft of the thesis on computer, a task of great labour and skill, willingly shouldered by him to help me in my endeavour. I am indebted to him for his kind gesture. Except for a few months of study leave and the vacation period, the entire research work was pursued by me during the period when I was engaged full time as a College teacher with the additional charge of Vice Principal in MES College of Arts and Commerce, Zuarinagar, Goa. As, on account of this, my research work was going on at snail’s pace, a large number of my colleagues in the College and the Goa University and friends were reminding me, off and on, of my commitment to complete the work within the period stipulated by the University rules.
I am grateful to all these friends and colleagues for their keen interest in my research work and their consideration for me. I am extremely thankful to Kalika Prakashan Vishwast Mandal, Goa for allowing me the use of their computer to carry out the type-setting work of this thesis.

Last but not the least, my thanks are also due to the members of my family. I thank one and all, without whose cooperation this thesis would not have seen the light of the day.
