ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to express my deep and sincere gratitude and heartfelt thanks to the following people whose support and motivation led me through my long and arduous investigation leading to this manuscript.

First and foremost, I express my heartfelt gratitude and salutations to my supervisor Dr. Sarita Anand, Associate Professor, Department of Development Communication and Extension, Lady Irwin College, University of Delhi, for her big-heartedness for accepting me as her research scholar without hesitation. It was always her unending inspiration, unfailing help, encouragement and valuable suggestions which kept me going through all these challenging years. I am extremely grateful for her patience and time which indeed helped me to have a broader perspective about the study. It was because of her cooperation that I could bring the research study into the present shape and also will cherish all my life.

I would like to whole heartedly thank Dr. Anupa Siddhu, Director, Lady Irwin College, New Delhi, for her unerring direction at the initial stages of this research which greatly helped in this research journey.

I am thankful to (late) Mr. K. K. Arora, former P. A. to the Director, Lady Irwin College, New Delhi for providing his kind co-operation and moral support during the initial stage of my work.

I express my heartfelt gratitude and thanks to the staff of Directorate of Economics and Statistics, Government of Manipur, Imphal for their valuable suggestions during the development of socio-economic tools for research. I also owe my gratitude to Dr. Salam Noren Singh, Imphal College, Manipur for his help during the statistical analysis of data.

I am also very grateful to the library staff of Lady Irwin College, University of Delhi, JNU, National Institute of Health and Family (National Documentation Centre), National Medical Library, New Delhi for providing invaluable suggestions and making available much needed books and other literature for my study.
I am also thankful to Manipur AIDS Control Society (MACS), Manipur for their invaluable help in procuring the list of different NGO and making relevant documents available to me.

I also express my sincere gratitude to the personnel of all 14 (fourteen) NGOs under study especially Ms. Dasumati, outreach worker, Hope Care Centre, New Chekon, Ms. Rani, peer educator, ISD, Singjamei and Ms. Manorama, counsellor SASO, for their unfailing support in establishing rapport with the women seeking support from these NGOs and helped me lay the foundation of my research work. I am greatly indebted to all the women respondents without their cooperation; it would have never been possible to conduct this study.

I am deeply indebted to my colleagues Dr. K. Ruhini Kumar Singh and Mr. K. Shri Kumar Singh, Lecturer, Ideal College, Akampat, Imphal, Manipur for their guidance, support and suggestions during my research work.

I would like to thank Ms. Neha Sharma for her gracious help in documenting the research work.

I wish to especially thank and recall my father Mr. M. Kholei Singh, who blesses me from the heaven for all my endeavours in life.

No words can express my gratitude to my family particularly, my mother, my brothers and sister- in-laws and my parents-in-law for their love, affection, understanding and encouragement, without which I would have never completed this research work.

I am extremely proud of my husband Mr. P. Kumarjit Singh, whose emotional and moral support led to this research work. My two children Ghanajeet Pebam and Alectra Pebam were the playful background music which kept me emotionally charged through this challenging phase of my life.

Lastly, but not the least, I express my deep and heartfelt gratitude to the almighty for bestowing confidence and commitment to complete this work.
