Acknowledgements

This dissertation would not have been possible without the help and support of some special people. I would like to acknowledge:

Dr. Sudeshna Mazumdar-Leighton, my supervisor and best teacher, for teaching me to do research; for sharing the joys and agonies of experiments that worked or didn’t work, and for teaching me to write a thesis. This work would have been impossible without her guidance, critical analysis and constant support. I am very thankful to her for introducing me to the fascinating world of insect-plant interactions.

Dr. V. S. Reddy, Group leader of the Plant Transformation Group (PTG), ICGEB, New Delhi, for giving me an opportunity to work in his lab, encouragement, support, and for providing access to MALDI-TOF. Dr. S. Leelavathi (ICGEB), for her valuable suggestions. I would always be very thankful for their advices and timely support.

Prof. S.C. Bhatla, Head, Department of Botany (DU), Prof. S. K. Sawhney, Dr. Rajendra Gupta and Dr. Rajesh Tandon, for their advice and support during the course of this work.

My friends and colleagues at Lab 15, Department of Botany, DU: Dr. Mahaswetta Saikia, Dr. Rakesh Kumar, Dr. Pratibha Singh, Dr. Y.T. Singh (momo), Prashant, Vivek, S. Kashung and Pawan for their support and understanding. My friends at ICGEB: Abhishek, Bhupendra, Sarvanan, Viji, Deepak, Ranjana and Krishan, for my pleasant memories of ICGEB. The timely help and assistance of Rajesh, Prakash ji and Raju is acknowledged.

My friends, Betsey, Arshi, Shelly, Khushu and Pooja for always being there for me and for cheering me up when I felt low.

My brothers, Amit and Nikky; my sister, Nisha; and my parents, for being the best in the world. My in laws: Mummy, Papa, Chachaji, Chachi, Pravesh, Lovely and Lohit for their encouragement and patience.

My husband, Dr. Amit Bhardwaj, for his unconditional love, encouragement and strength; and my beloved daughter Ananya for bringing joy and happiness in my life.

The University Grants Commission (UGC-NET) fellowship is acknowledged.
