It is a pleasure to acknowledge my debt to all those who have made this work possible. First of all, apart from his invaluable guidance, without the freedom and encouragement from my Supervisor, Professor Yogendra Singh and his unceasing patience this thesis would perhaps have never been completed. Thanks are due to the teachers and staff at the Centre for the Study of Social Systems, J.N.U., and especially to Mrs. Kakar and Madam Sarla for their kind consideration during my studentship in the school.

One cannot forget Late Shri Sushil Kumar Mitra (Dada) who always took special interest in providing me with the best of books. Mantu Kaku took active interest in helping me gather data on manufacturing activity in Orissa prior to independence.

The financial assistance provided by the UGC enabled me to bear all the expenses I had to incur during the course of my thesis work. The staff of various libraries, especially those of J.N.U. and Teen Murti were also very helpful. The entrepreneurs, the officials of the promoting agencies and financial institutions, the other staff and respondents have shown unusual cooperation during the period of field work.

Baby has helped me in more ways than one at various stages of the thesis without any sign of hesitation and at the cost of her studies. Her major contribution was correcting my poor English within the constraints of time. Basant helped me out at the crucial juncture when the thesis required certain structural modifications. Tridib within an amazingly short time reduced my tensions regarding statistical data analysis with the help of a NIIT computer. Manu was kind enough to get the map made by their cartographer Mr. Zahoor. Sanjay Kumar and Onkar Singh gave me the needful company in moments of anxiety and despair and checked the final typed matter.

Mohanty Babu and Eswarji took the pains to type out the first draft from the handwritten manuscript. Shaji obviously has done a neat job with the final typing. It would be unfair if I do not mention Mr. Hiranmoy Bose
