Acknowledgments

Dreams come true when you go after them and nourish the zeal in your heart to realize those dreams in reality. Today while writing these pages on acknowledgements I feel like having a voyage to the lanes of my childhood memories where a desire was implanted in my being to seek a path of knowledge as my future career. Thanks a lot to the Almighty Mother for providing that ambience, the time frame and the people who have introduced me to this world of knowledge which culminates in this thesis.

It goes without saying that I owe a great deal to my Supervisor Prof. Pramod Kumar Pandey whose advice and guidance are instrumental in bringing this study to completion. Perhaps the words here can not express the depth of gratitude towards Prof. Pandey for his incompatible guidance at every stage of the thesis. I admire his ample patience and concern with which he went through the minute details of this thesis. It is from him I tried to learn to raise relevant research questions and make balanced claims. My indebtedness to him is not confined to this work, but goes unto the beginning of my interest in Phonetics and Phonology and I feel really proud to submit this thesis under his able supervision.

This thesis owes its existence to Prof. Rene Kager under whose supervision I did a short term Ph.D course in Utrecht University, The Netherlands on the same topic of my thesis. In fact, most of the ideas of the thesis have taken a preliminary shape owing to a number of thought provoking and stimulating discussions with Prof. Kager.

At Utrecht I learned a lot about the recent works in the field of Phonetics and Phonology from conversations with, especially Tom, Johannes and from the weekly meetings conducted at the Utrecht institute of Linguistics concerning the research updates among the research scholars. I must thank Daria, my colleague in Utrecht University, for providing me good company and help during my stay in The Netherlands for three months.

I owe my thanks to the teachers of Jawaharlal Nehru University Prof. Vaishna Narang, Prof. Franson Manjali, Prof. R.S. Gupta, Prof. Anvita Abbi, Ayesha Kidwai all of whom have taught me how to go about doing research in Linguistics during my course work of M.Phil.

Two of my friends Mahesh and Shekhar deserve special thanks. I must thank Mahesh for helping in my struggle with PRAAT and recording of the data needed for the acoustic analysis. I am grateful to all the informants for their kind cooperation and patience they showed while recording the data. The cooperation which Shekhar has shown in editing this thesis is beyond words. The completion of this thesis would not have been possible without the assistance of Mahesh and Shekhar in various respects.

My thanks are due to Phillip Backley, Andrew Nevins, Jennifer Smith, Ridouanne, Seok Chae Rhee, Chin Woo Kim for their useful suggestions during the final touches which helped in expediting my work. They help me a lot by providing articles and research papers at every stage of the preparation of this thesis. I must mention here the name of Mere Kepe, a research associate of Auckland University, for her continuous support and encouragement in my research endeavour.

It will be injustice if I don’t thank Mrs. Kiran Pandey who has always been a constant source of inspiration in my four years research programme in JNU. I will always be grateful to her for her motherly affection and valuable suggestions. The moral support and motivation which I got from her is beyond words.

I would like to thank the Head of the Department of the Centre for Linguistics and Contemporary English, Prof Hemlatha Nagarajan for being so cooperative and having given me leave when I urgently needed it to complete the thesis. I am also thankful to all my colleagues at The English and The Foreign languages University (EFLU) for having helped me in various respects directly or indirectly.

I thank my friends and well wishers Shankharoop, Rohit, Arup, Deepa, Indra, Munna, Pradeepda, Deepima, Sarmistha, Barasa, Arunima, Varun, Priyam, Chiranjeeb, Bidyum, Mayank, Anand, Biswajaeeet, Sanjeet, Ratnesh, Reshmi, Hari, Yankee, Shahnawaz, Sarwarul, Naveen, Shivam, Vipin, Neelam, Sarath, Nimmi, David, Tulsi Bhaiya, Rawatjee, Mallik sir, Jonali, Mamunu mahi, etc for their moral support and help.

At the end, I must thank my parents for their endless support in fulfilling my academic ambitions. They are motivating force behind my ever success in life. And my younger sister Simi really deserves special thanks for her unfailing moral support and encouragement in the completion of my thesis.
