Inevitably, in writing a thesis, one is dependent on the support and cooperation of a large number of people and experts. Without their help and inputs, there would have been no research and no progress in my work. I have to confess that, originally I had my doubts about the possibility of writing a thesis on such a wide-ranging topic as institutional development in European Union and my ability to reinterpret the whole debate in some hundred pages. The idea of writing on institutional development in European Union, I argued was doomed and that too when it involved a supranational entity which not only by its geographical limits was huge but also diverse in terms of ethnicity, religion and other problems it faced.

However, my supervisor Dr. Bhaswati Sarkar, who first proposed the idea, is not a woman who allows an obstacle to stand in the way of academic pursuit. Faced with my reservations, she suggested that instead of dealing with the whole issues of institutional developments, I focus on European Parliament related to the aspects of physical and institutional integrity. I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to my supervisor for providing me such endless encouragement, intellectual inspiration and enthusiasm. Without her faith and support, I would never have had the opportunity to develop ideas that I can call my own. Indeed, her supervisory jurisdiction extended beyond the call of duty on many occasions, both during my MPhil and PhD.

I am extremely grateful to the faculty members at the Centre for European Studies for their constructive criticism of my work during my five years at the School of International Studies. I am thankful to Prof. Shashi Kant Jha, Prof. R.K. Jain, Prof. Ummu Salma Bava, Dr. Gulshan Sachideba and Shital Sharma. I extend my gratitude to all the faculty members and staffs at Centre for European Studies for not only sharing their insights to enrich my thesis but also for the wonderful time that I spent with them.
I am obliged to the reference staff and librarians of Jawaharlal Nehru University, the Indian Council of World Affairs, the Institute of Defence Studies and Analyses, the British Council and the Rembrandt Library of Centre for European Studies.

I owe special thanks to my friend Suhajit Anand and Biswajit Giri for their very useful comments of an academic and editorial nature, which have improved greatly the quality of my thesis. A sincere word of thanks to Suchitra (Suchi), who helped me to improve the quality of the work with her proofreading abilities.

I am grateful to Nilakantha Dandpat, Brundabati Dandpat, Pravakar Das, Sushama Das, Dr. Kalinga Ketki, Shushant Rout, Arun Mallick, Chandra Kant Shamal, Dr. Birendra Sona and Dr. Pankaj Deep.

Last, but not least, I am grateful to my mother, brother and sisters for their selfless material assistance to support my PhD. My one regret is that my father did not live to see even the beginning of my work. He would have been happy to see its completion.

Pramod Kumar Mandal

Pramod Kumar Mandal