In producing this thesis, I have had generous support from many quarters. This thesis would not have been possible without the help of many wonderful people who have in one way or another helped me for my Ph. D. study.

My greatest intellectual debts are first to my Supervisors. My Guide, Dr. Kawaljeet Singh, has been an inspiring mentor ever since I came to his contact in 2008. Dr. Singh has a positive impact on my life – probably a lot more than he might imagine. I can never hope to repay his kindness. I will forever be indebted to Dr. Singh for his faith, unconditional support and encouragement in all phases of this thesis.

I am also indebted to Dr. Neeraj Sharma who, lent me an attentive ear and helped me overcome the obstacles I encountered. He has been a wellspring of ideas, encouragement and advice as I jostled with discourse analysis. Throughout this period, he has generously given his time and wisdom. In supporting me on this intellectual journey, he has helped me become more the person I want to be. I am indebted to him for accepting my request to be my Co-Guide at a very critical time. I simply could not wish for a better supervisor and mentor.

It is a pleasure to express my gratitude wholeheartedly to my friends for their unconditional and selfless help. Special thanks to Gagan Basrai, Shilpi Sehgal, Sukpal Singh, Kuldeep Brar for their kind support and assistance at every stage of this dissertation work.

I also want to acknowledge the support of Dr Maninder Singh, Dr. Deepak Garg of Thaper University, Mr. Satinerpal Singh (Landran University) their incessant efforts at different procedural stages have made this thesis a reality.

This journey would never have been complete without my family. My parents have loved and supported me in ways I cannot even begin to name. My father, Prof. Himat Singh, allowed me all the freedom in the world and had a dream that I study hard and do well in the field of academics. My whole life owes a deep debt to his foresight, perseverance and belief in my capability. Though I have often taken the silent prayers of my mother, Mrs. Harbans Kaur, for my wellbeing for granted, without her support my father would not have realised his dreams for me. I am also very fortunate to have in-laws who have supported me and my family immensely.

I derive strength from my wife and daughter to whom my whole life is devoted. I have no suitable words to thank my wife, Mrs Navneet Kaur, who has incorporated herself into my very backbone. And beyond that, she has nurtured my growth into a scholar by encouraging my impulses to both critique and absorb the world around me, and to forge my own path while remaining grounded in a sense of wonder and faith. This orientation has been, and will always be, my constant guide.

Finally, a big “THANK YOU” to the All Mighty “Waheguru”

(AMITOJ SINGH)
