Acknowledgement

An exercise of the nature of doctoral research is often an arduous roller coaster ride with the highs and lows of successes and failures. The strength to endure this journey and the persistence to keep going during the difficult times comes largely due to people. People, who constantly guide you, help you, encourage you, motivate you or simply cheer you along the way. My job would therefore be incomplete without expressing my gratitude to those who have directly or indirectly facilitated the successful completion of this endeavor.

I am extremely grateful to my esteemed teacher and research guide Dr. B. R. Srinivasan, Senior lecturer, Department of Chemistry, Goa University as this research work is the outcome of his valuable and inspiring guidance, constant encouragement, keen interest, clear and firm convictions and whole hearted cooperation.
