Acknowledgements

First and foremost, I express gratitude to my supervisor Dr Mukesh Patel for his guidance, valuable suggestions, unparalleled encouragement and support made throughout the course of the study. He always provided an endless source of ideas and motivation, and was always approachable. He has allowed me the freedom to develop my own areas of interest within the scope of this project, and made the research more enjoyable rather than daunting.

I am grateful to the KSV university for allowing me to study in such esteemed place. I forward my appreciation to the principal, Dr A S Gor and staff members of Pramukh Swami Science and H D Patel Arts College, SarvaVidyalaya Campus, Kadi.

The authors acknowledge UGC, New Delhi for financial support by providing the major research project [F No 39-715/2010(SR)] to Dr M C Patel.

I am deeply grateful to my beloved parents for their continuous love, prayers and encouragement for my success. I also thank my parents in law, my brothers for their prayers, love and support without whose good wishes I could not have completed this work. Thanks to all of my friends and other well-wishers for his accompany. Words are inadequate to express my deepest admiration to my wife Hetal for all the sacrifice she has made regarding my entire endeavour. But for her trust and belief in me and above all encouragement and understanding, it would have been difficult if not impossible to undertake the program successfully. I am thankful to my son Shrey to allow me happily to do work on off-days and late night that was also a silent support for me.

Lastly I would like to thank each and every one of them who helped me directly or indirectly during this research program and lots of experience gaining journey. I bow my head before almighty to facilitate me at any stage of my dream to accomplish.

Dharmesh Dhameliya