ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is with great pleasure that I wish to carve my indebtedness and gratitude to Dr. Jagdish Joshi, Associate Professor, UGC Academic Staff College, Gujarat University for constructive suggestions, expert advice, continuous encouragement, guidance and feedback to boost me at time to time during the course of my doctoral research.

It was a proverb that a tiny seed can take a shape of a giant tree provided due care is taken. The researcher of the present study experienced it in the PhD research work. A small idea regarding difficulties in listening and speaking skills in English took such an unbelievable form is a miracle. I am also thankful to Dr. Priyankiben Vyas along with my supervisor, for loving and providing me care, motivation, ambiance and encouragement during the research work.

I would like to express my profound gratitude to Dr. Amrapali Marchant, Dr Rajendra Jadeja and Dr. Sanjay Raval great pillars of support. Without their support and motivation, I would not have seen this day. I express my gratitude to Dr. Piyush Joshi, Dr. Dilip Barad, Dr. Hitesh Raviya, Dr. Atanu Bhattacharya and Dr.Chotaliya for their guidance and support in my research work.

I am express heartfelt gratitude to my Parents – Parmar Danabhai and Parmar Nathiben, brothers Hitesh and Yogesh, for giving me loving and carrying. I owe to their support, extensive and constructive suggestions in my life. I am thankful to my sister Pragna and Dinesh Jiju, Sandhya, Dr. Bhagatsinh Dodia and Smitaben Dodia for their support in my life.
I am thankful to my friends Hitesh Viradiya and Hardik Sankaliya for giving support and help during my Ph.D. work.

At this moment I take an opportunity of expressing my feeling of thanks to the Principal, Staff members and enthusiastic and co-operative students of Atmiya Institute Junagadh, Junagadh, upon whom a success of the present study is depended.

- Nita D. Parmar