ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I wish to express my esteemed gratitude to Prof. P. K. Shrivastava who introduced me to this fascinating and interesting field of tribal research, without his guidance this work could not have come to its present shape. His valuable suggestions and continuous encouragement throughout the study cannot be overlooked in the rest of my career.

My thanks to Prof. R. S. Dube, Department of Geography, Doctor Harisingh Gour Vishwavidyalaya, Sagar for the help which I had the privilege of getting from him every now and then.

I also wish to place on record my sincere gratitude to Dr. S. K. Basu, Head, Department of Population Genetics & Human Development, National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi and Dr. (Mrs.) Neelam Makol, Assistant Research Officer in the same department for her valuable suggestions.

My elder brother Dr. T.N. Sharma, Assistant Professor, Lal Bahadur Shastri, National Academy of Administration, Mussoorie has been a constant resource of inspiration to me. He also deserve my gratitude.

Thanks are also due to my colleagues Dr. T.G. Shrivastava (Research Officer), Dr. Anil Shrivastava (Senior Research Officer) and Mr. P.K. Pande (Ph.D. Scholar), Department of Reproductive Bio-medicine, National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi who have been always willing to help me whenever I approached them.

I offer my personal thanks to my elder brothers Shri Shivashanker Prem Nath Sharma (M.A.) and Rakesh Sharma and to my younger brother Kesheva Kadar Nath Sharma (M.Sc.). I owe my thanks to Shri Anil Kumar Vishwakarma (LLB) and Mr. Ravindra Pratap Singh (LLB) for the help during the data collection from remote interior tribal areas of Surguja district (Madhya Pradesh).

I must also record here my gratitude to several medical personnel, teachers and villagemen of the concerned areas for their help and cooperation without which the data collection for this study would have been difficult to gather.

I also like to thank Shri Surat Ram Sharma, PA in the Dean's Office, National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi for the careful typing of the manuscript and Mr. Vikas Nandankar and Mrs. Shashi Dhimani, the layout artists, who have drawn all the figures.

(K.K.N. Sharma)