Any research needs indepth study of the facts and deep analysis. There are points of time when the researcher finds herself biased and without results and conclusion. In such crucial moments, she needs personal touch, moral support, motivation and inspiration. This is a hard fact that no person without such support would be able in any manner to complete a standard research work and to reach at a justified conclusion.

In the same manner, I have been supported in different senses by each and every person around me. I am fortunate enough in this way.

Foremost, I am spiritually grateful to God for blessing me and helping me in successfully completing this research work. Thou have ever bestowed upon me the grace and mercy.

I am thankful to the honourable RDC for approving my topic and allowing me to pursue my Ph.D work.

Further, I would like to express profound gratitude to my research supervisor, Dr. S.K. Agarwal, Reader, Faculty of Commerce and Business Administration in D.N. (P.G.) College, Meerut for his consistent, gracious and untiring guidance for completion of this thesis. I am thankful to you Sir.
I also show my deep sense of indebtedness to my Guru-Mata, wife of my supervisor, Mrs. Sumanlata Agarwal. She ever treated me with her affection and care. During my constant visits, she ever took care of my fatigue and drabness.

I am also thankful to Dr. Triveni Dutt, Principal, D.N. (P.G.) College, Meerut, for giving me this opportunity to pursue this research study at D.N. (P.G.) College, Meerut.

Words are less to describe and express my regards and gratitude to Dr. A. K. Sharma – Head, Department of Commerce and Business Administration, D.N. College, Meerut; Dr. R. K. Rastogi, Dr. P. N. Singhal, Dr. S. K. Gupta, Dr. R. K. Singhal, Dr. Sudhir Kumar, Dr. B. K. Agarwal and Dr. Himanshu Agarwal of Faculty of Commerce and Business Administration, D.N. (P.G.) College, Meerut. Their valuable guidance helped me to iron out the difficulties I had during this research work. They all consistently provided me with encouragement, valuable insights and suggestions. I am extremely grateful to all of them.

I would like to pay my heartfelt thanks to the Librarian Sir of CCS University and Mr. J. N. Sharma, Librarian, D. N. College, Meerut for supporting me and for making me available various books and journals.

I am also grateful to the administrative staff of D. N. College, Meerut, who at times helped me, supported me and drained out my difficulties.
In regard to this research, I will remain thankful to Mr. Siddharth Shriram (CEO, Mawana Sugars Pvt. Ltd.) and Mr. Pradyuman Pandey (Asst. Vice President, Mawana Sugar Works, Mawana) for giving me their valuable time. I am highly thankful to Mr. Karan Singh (Unit-Head, Mawana Sugar Works), Mr. Vikas Goel (Dy. Manager, Accounts Department, Mawana Sugar Works), Mr. Sanjeev Mishra (AGM-HR Department, Mawana Sugar Works) for providing me the necessary material and relevant information about the company Mawana Sugar Works, Mawana and helping me in collecting the primary data during the survey. I express my gratitude to the entire HR department and staff of Mawana Sugar Works, Mawana for their kind and friendly cooperation in the process of this research work.

I am also very grateful to Dr. Nimisha for her support. She has helped me very much in this research work.

I find it really hard to express my gratitude to my father Mr. Ashok Kumar Gupta and my mother Mrs. Madhu Gupta, who always accompanied me in my frequent visits to various libraries and to Mawana Sugar Works, Mawana. They have always been a consistent source of inspiration and moral support to me in completing this research work. Without them, it was not possible to complete this research work in the present shape and at time.

I also express my gratitude and deepest appreciation to my younger brother Ashish Agarwal, for his cooperation, love and moral support in the process of completing this thesis. I value his constant affection and support.

Here, I would not lose to mention and to thank my respectable Bua ji and Phufa ji, Smt Krishna Agarwal and Dr. R. A. Agarwal, who not only showered upon me their ashir-vachans but also guided me at my various biasednesses.

I am also thankful to my beloved Bhabhi Dr. Archana Rani, not only for her support but also for valuable inputs in the thesis.

Here I am also thankful to Mr. Manish Goel who very neatly typed my thesis and showed his patience ever during the course of this research work.

Lastly I apologize for any unseen mistake, any slip of pen and pray to Almighty God that thou bless me and forgive me for any mistakes of mine done knowingly or unknowingly.
