ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I gratefully acknowledge the guidance, encouragement, help and assistance that I have received from numerous well wishers' and people working at different positions of special importance from the point of view of this study, without which it would have been exceedingly difficult to complete this study in its present form successfully.

First and foremost I would like to record my immense sense of gratitude to Professor Yogendra Singh, my Supervisor and one of the doyens of first generation Indian Sociologists. Sociology of Development being relatively a newer strand in Indian Social Sciences, his help in formulating the methodological scheme of this study was of great importance to me. Working under a research guide of Professor Singh's stature had its own pressures and demands on me. Though I enjoyed absolute freedom in carrying out this study and in putting across my ideas and arguments, his constant guidance - despite his occasionally failing health - not only brought me in direct touch with the problems faced by Indian Sociologists, but was also intellectually stimulating for me. I have also benefitted from my discussions - often lasting for hours - with Professor C.N.Venugopal, Professor J.S.Gandhi and Professor Imtiyaz Ahmad. I owe special thanks to them. Dr.Kameshwar Choudhary and Dr.Abdul Waheed of Aligarh Muslim University always helped me in resolving many empirical problems.
and were constantly inspiring.

My field work took me to many and often remotest areas of Jammu & Kashmir. Right from conducting survey to collecting statistics, I received cooperation from several quarters. Among the institutes and government department which helped me during the field work are: J&K Department of Planning and Development; Directorate of Family Welfare, Immunization and MCH, Srinagar; J&K Social Welfare Advisory Board; J&K Social Welfare Department; J&K Commissioner (Education); District Development Commissioner, Anantnag, Planning Officer, Department of Education, Anantnag; District Social Welfare Officer, Anantnag; Programme Officer, ICDS, Anantnag; I am also grateful for the co-operation I have received from UNICEF, Regional Office, New Delhi; World Health Organization, Regional Office, New Delhi; UNESCO, Regional Office, New Delhi; Institute for Social Development, New Delhi; Department of Women and Child Development, Ministry of Human Resources Development, Government of India; National Institute of Health and Family Welfare, New Delhi.

During the Study I met many people, Social Scientists and government officials directly responsible for the implementation of various developmental projects in J&K. They were always forthcoming with their perceptions of various government schemes underway in the State and aimed at the development of Women and Children. An acknowledgement is due to: Omera Maqbool, Assistant Director, J&K Department of Economics and Statistics;
Mr. T. N. Kaul, Assistant Director, Planning, J&K Department of Social Welfare Department; Mr. Mehraj-ud-Din and Mr. Mohd. Shaban, Department of Health and Family Welfare; Mr. Masoodul Hassan, J&K Social Welfare Advisory Board; Mr. Mohd. Siddique Khan, District Planning Officer; and Mr. Gulam Mohd. I also submit my deepest thanks to the Institute of objective studies, New Delhi; and Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), New Delhi for financial support without which it would have been extremely difficult to complete this study.
