ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This study was conducted under the guidance of Dr. C. V. Cheriyan, former Professor and Director, School of International Relations and former Dean, Faculty of Social Sciences, Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam. His rich experience and vast knowledge were unreservedly at my disposal. I am happy to acknowledge with thanks that his thought-provoking comments and kind advice showed me the right direction at every stage of the work.

I place on record my profound sense of gratitude to Dr. G. P. Ramachandra, Director, School of International Relations, Mahatma Gandhi University, whose interest, encouragement and assistance were invaluable to me. My sincere thanks are also due to the other members of the faculty and the staff of the office of the Mahatma Gandhi University for their kindness and co-operation.

I specially thank Dr. Rajan Gurukal, Director, School of Social Sciences for his kind support. I must also thank Dr. E. K. G. Nambiar, Reader, Department of History, University of Calicut, who introduced me into Soviet foreign policy studies.

It will be a great injustice on my part if I fail to record with thanks the very valuable help provided by the authorities of the libraries were I carried out my research. I acknowledge my indebtedness to the staff of the Jawaharlal Nehru University Library, New Delhi; Indian Council of World Affairs Library, Sapru House, New Delhi; the Library of the Institute for Defence Studies and Analyses, New Delhi; Parliament Library, New Delhi; the United Nations Library, New Delhi; the Indo-Soviet Cultural Centre Library, New Delhi; the Embassy of the former USSR, New Delhi; the Mahatma Gandhi University Library, Kottayam, the Kerala University Library, Thiruvananthapuram; Department of Political Science Library, Kariavattom, Thiruvananthapuram; and the State Central Library, Thiruvananthapuram.

My special thanks are due to M/s COPY WRITE, Ettumanoor for word processing and photocopying of this work.

In conducting this study I received generous help and co-operation from many other friends and well-wishers. I am grateful to all of them.
