If your answer is NO, give reasons
No time and visual media is used more. As I'm currently out of Sri Lanka, I don't get to listen to Sri Lankan radio channels.

2. Yowun Wasanthaye (new version)- Nanda Malini 7 29%

Give reasons to your answer

Tracks of the new version too "electronic" It makes peaceful sound and moral satisfaction Reasons are given above. Sounds are very clear and music is more sophisticated than old version. Singer's voice is very nice than earlier version. I love that original because of less instruments i prefered old version because i like to follow the meaning of the song first, then the relevent music. for this old version gives me more oppertunity than the new version. first singers voice then instruments. old version is clear and i like the music composition rather than the newest,,, old is gold... old music is better Old version pleasing to the year than the new New one seem to be loud I prefer to old music system. It was the first version which touched my heart. therefore, I still love to here the original version. I like both. No preference. i do not like old songs, i like mixed, diverse music in a one, same song at once like A.R. Rahumans Old version: Music is so simple and help to enjoy the song New version: It is noisy and also seems not so appropriate for a slow song like this. I believe that the music is for taming the restless mind. So called new versins, for me is rather noisy, and at times suppress vocal by instruments, the vocal for me is the core of music. In the new version sounds of different music instruments can be heard differently. Personally I like that. I also feel that new version is a stereo recorded and I like to listen to music recorded in stereo technology.

Any other comments

I prefer to listen buddhist songs I do not live in Sri Lanka any more, which has changed my taste for Sri Lankan music to a great extent. I, who rarely listened to Sri Lankan artistes have now come to appreciate Sri Lankan classical music of veteran artistes like Nanda Malini and Amaradeva for a very nostalgic reason. Let me emphasize that my preferences have not changed. But I may, once in a while tune into a Sri Lankan radio station just because it makes me think I am in Sri Lanka. I have the original cassette of this song and I heard this when I was her student at Sangeetha Ashramaya. In 2011 I heard this song live at Shwetha Rathriya and I enjoyed the song than original one.It is very difficult to express the difference and let me say the song is more sophisticated and the quality is very high than old version. May be the music by popular musicians like Victor Rathnayake's son (drummer) would be one of the reasons. I personally feel that her voice slightly upgraded after her Visharda and also her continuous practice would be the reasons for this change. (Answer for How many CD/Cassettes purchased?)
Never buy. Downloaded them. I prefer to music concert but time is the main problem. Please upload some articles about how is the changes occurs in our country in the field of music... transformation in old to new,..... people deviate from Arts/music when the artists are not for people. I find almost all the pieces I like to listen to on Youtube. Youtube is a great resource, especially when you are out of Sri Lanka. In new version the music is quite noisy. I normally listen the Tamil Music. Listening to the radio has become a very rare event, because of the busy life schedule. It has become more convenient to listen to a song while working in the computer. However, the music balance of the new version is not properly done. If it balanced well, it can produce a better quality music.
