Knowledge gives Humility; Humility gives character; from character one gets wealth; from wealth the path of righteousness (dharma) from which one gets happiness. This sloka signifies the importance of true knowledge in our lives.

I am grateful to God for giving me the opportunity to explore His creation through the subject of my choice.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the people who have helped me complete this work. I would like to express sincere gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Sanjay Kapoor for accepting me as his student and guiding me through the Ph.D. tenure. He has been a source of inspiration for me to work in a systematic and professional way. His eye for detail and perfection has helped better the quality of work presented in this thesis. I also thank him for giving me the freedom to plan and execute ideas, which has helped me to gain confidence as a researcher.

I would also like to thank Prof. Tyagi for his keen interest and timely suggestions, which were necessary for shaping up of the work.

I also acknowledge all teachers of my department; Prof. J.P. Khurana, Prof. Paramjit Khurana, Prof. Anil Grover, Prof. Indranil Dasgupta, Prof. M. Mohan, Dr. Arun Sharma, Dr. Saurabh Raghuavanshi and Dr. Surekha K. Agarwal for their encouragement and inspiring me to work in this field of biology.

My lab members Rita, Priyanka, Mohan, Vinay, Manupriya, Malini, Mrinalini, Vibha, Niharika, Neha, Tripti, Supriya have been a constant support system and this endeavor would not have been possible without them. I also thank the M.Sc. and dissertation students of the lab Sushma, Sudhir, Diksha, Mayank, Rajdeep, Shirisha and Ridhi for their cheerful disposition and company. I would also like to thank my seniors Swati, Jiten, Reema, Prashant and Pinky for their useful advice and help. Thanks are also due to Mrs. Shashi Mehta, Dr. Nina C. Chaudhary, Mrs. Neelam Bedi and Mrs. Renu Dhawan for their support.

A special thanks to Dr. Nina for helping me out with confocal microscopy. I would like to thank Dr. A.K. Singh, IARI, New Delhi for help in growing the plant material; Dr. Alok Sinha, NIPGR, New Delhi for help with SEM analysis and Mr. Nirpendra Singh and Ms. Pushpanjali Dasauini, Central Instrumentation Facility, University of Delhi, South Campus for help with the UPLC experiment and Dr. Ujjaini Dasgupta, Central Instrumentation Facility, University of Delhi, South Campus for help with sequencing. I also want to acknowledge Genotypic Technology Pvt Ltd., Bengaluru for the ChIP library preparation and generation of raw sequence data reported in this thesis. Thanks are also due to Drs. Ramesh Hariharan and Vamsi Veeramachaneni of Strand Life Sciences, Bengaluru, for helping us with ChIP Seq data analyses. I would like to thank all DPMB office members for being co-operative. I appreciate the assistance provided by Jai throughout the tenure.

I sincerely thank Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) for Junior and Senior Research fellowships. I also acknowledge University of Delhi for providing me with the University Teaching Assistantship, which has instilled me with a sense of confidence in the field of teaching. This experience has taught me to manage time and in understanding that both teaching and research can be done alongside.

I thank all my fellow students and members of the department for making my stay here a pleasant one. I would like to thank my friends Pratikshya, Disha, Aryaka, Sahil and Anshuk for being there for me.

I am grateful to God for my parents who have helped me sail through all situations in my life. This journey would not have been possible if they hadn’t unconditionally supported me through and through, from dropping and picking me up every day from the department, helping me with IARI field trips, making sure all the meals were on time, letting me relax once I got home, helping me release any pressure which I faced during this journey and in making me believe that I can shine from where I am. I thank all my family members Ammumma, Appuppan, Valiyamma, Valiyachan, Chitta, Kochachan, Gayu Chechi, Nandini and Govind for their love and support. I thank my husband Ranjith for patiently supporting me through the final leg of this journey.

Saraswati Nayar
July 2013