END NOTES

5 Census of India. (1991 & 2001). According to 1991 Census, percentage of population in Class towns I, II, III, IV, V & VI were 65.2%, 10.9%, 13.1%, 7.7%, 2.6% and 0.3% respectively. Whereas in 2001 census, percentage of population in Class I, II, III, IV, V & VI were 68.6%, 9.67%, 12.2%, 6.8%, 2.3% and 0.2% respectively.

6 Provisional Census of India, 2011 data not released for number of Class II to V towns.

9 Census of India. 2001

11 IBEF (Indian Brand Equity Foundation). (2011). Karnataka - the Silicon Valley of India, Haryana India

National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER) -2003

NSSO: Drinking Water Sanitation and Hygiene in India, 54th Round, National Sample Survey Organization, Delhi, 2000

32 Bangalore Development Authority: an area consists of 1294 sq.km and with a population of 5.68 million and it’s controlled by Bangalore Metropolitan area. The Bangalore Metropolitan Area (BMA) covers an area of 1307 sq.km and comprises the Brahut Bangalore Mahanagara Palike, surrounding villages and the Bangalore-Mysore Infrastructure Corridor Project Area (BMICPA).

33 Eight local planning authority such as Bangalore International Airport Planning Authority (BIAPA), Bangalore Mysore Infrastructure Corridor Planning Authority (BMICAPA), Ramanagar and Channapatana Urban Development Authority, Nelamangala Planning Authority, Kanakapura Planning Authority, Magadi Planning Authority, Hoskote Planning Authority and Anekal Planning Authority.

34 Helders, S. World Gazetteer

35 IDIP Report. prepared by STEM for KUIDFC. pp. 2, Chapter 8

Ibid. 51.

Ravindran.d

Alf, 2003

Ravindra A

ibid

IDIP Report. Repared by STEM for KUIDFC. pp. 2, Chapter 8

The BMR SP 2011 envisions that the districts of the state be grouped into five regions (South, West, Central, North-East and North-West). However, all the state regions including SKR do not have a statutory status and have remained as conceptual entities.

256