ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The research presented in this licentiate thesis has been carried out at the department of Computer Engineering, University College of Engineering, Punjabi University. The path towards this thesis spans several years of research work and many people have been involved and contributed to the presented ideas and understanding gained. It is my pleasure to thank all those who helped us directly or indirectly in the completion of my doctoral education and instrumental in the compilation of this thesis.

First and foremost, I feel immense pleasure in expressing my deep sense of gratitude and indebtedness to WAHEGURU, the almighty God, who mercifully felt me worthy of his blessings.

I thank my supervisors Dr. (Mrs.) Lakhwinder Kaur, Reader, Department of Computer Engineering, University College of Engineering, Punjabi University, Patiala and Dr. Savita Gupta, Professor, Department of Computer Engineering, University Institute of Engineering & Technology, Panjab University, Chandigarh for their detailed and constructive comments, and imperative support throughout this work. Their guidance was always gracious, professional and aiming for the best of my doctoral experience. Their ideals and concepts have had a remarkable influence on my entire career in the field of computer science research.

I owe my most sincere gratitude to Dr. Manjit Singh Patterh, Head, University College of Engineering, Punjabi University, Patiala, for his valuable suggestions, support and inspiration to complete this work in this manner.
I am highly thankful to Dr. Harmesh Kansal, Associate Professor, University Institute of Engineering & Technology, Panjab University, Chandigarh and Dr. Amardeep Singh, Reader, University College of Engineering, Punjabi University, Patiala for providing me untiring help during my difficult moments.

I warmly thank Prof. Nirmaljit Singh, Khalsa College for Women, Amritsar, for his valuable advice and friendly help. His extensive discussions around my work and interesting explorations in operations have been very helpful for this study.

I am indebted to my family for their motivation and support for this project over the last three years. I express my deep gratitude to my parents for their strength and support, without which my doctoral education would have not been completed. I deeply appreciate the great enthusiasm of my wife Mrs. Parmjit Kaur for her enduring and invaluable encouragement for this endeavor. I thank her and my little loving Japneet Kaur and Sahajpreet Kaur for their forbearance during my long and weird hours that went in the completion of my research. A special thought is devoted to my parents for a never-ending support.

(Jatinder Singh)