ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In writing this thesis I have been guided at every turn by Dr. R. Maruthakutti, Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, Manonmaniam Sundaranar University, Tirunelveli. His insights have answered my numerous questions even proofread the manuscript. He has carefully steered me through the impenetrable maze of research procedures. All the sections are the thesis are accurate and readable because of him.

I extend my sincere thanks to all the faculty members of the Department of Sociology, Manonmaniam Sundaranar University, Tirunelveli for their encouragement during course of my research.

I wish to express my deep appreciation to Dr. S. V. Udayakumar for giving me enthusiasm and tenacity in accomplishing the goals of the study.

I am fortunate to avail the abundant grace of Most. Rev Dr. Peter Remigius, Bishop of Kottar who has remained a perennial source of inspiration and encouragement throughout my research work.

The cooperation and the patience of the numerous grass-root groups at the coastal villages who have actively participated in pilot study, which has given new insights into the focus and roadmap to research work. Additionally, a particular reference is made here of the members of Coastal Peace and Development Organization who have watched with amusement as the study has consumed not only their words, but their food and hospitalities in the study areas.

Thanks are extended to fisheries officials of the Tamil Nadu Fisheries Department especially Deputy Director of Fisheries, Chennai viz. Mr. Antony Xavier for contributing the data for references.

I express my gratitude to Mr. C. Asokan, Mr. S. Muthuarasan, Mr. M. Edwin, Mr. S. Velu and Mr. R. Murugan for their friendship and timely assistance.

Special thanks go to everyone of the respondents interviewed who have been patiently responded and devoted so much of their precious time in answering openly and magnanimously to a lengthy interview.

Special appreciation is also extended to leaders of the Anbiams of study area. They have provided me each and every detail of households in their Anbiams and extended their cooperation in the process of identifying the respondents.

I wish to thank Ms. R Hemalakshmi and Ms. N. Tamil Selvi for their timely assistance to expedite the process of data entry.

I am indebted to very many friends and family members for their constant encouragement. I acknowledge with profound gratitude to Dr. J.K. Stephen and Dr. Agnes Stephen who have shown a keen interest in the progress of my study and for their inspiring words.

A. KILDOS