Acknowledgement

This thesis is the end of a long and memorable journey and without the help and support of many people around me, who extended their full support, it would have been an extremely difficult one.

This thesis would not have been possible without the help, support, guidance, encouragement and patience of my guide, Dr. B. Suresh. I would also like to take this opportunity to thank him for believing in me and for going the extra mile when it was necessary, in order to make this happen. His ideals, ideas and concepts have had a remarkable influence on me and would like to seek his guidance in future also.

I am also indebted to Dr. A. Deshpande and Dr. T. G. Marvania for their kind support and for providing the facilities to conduct this study in the experimental premises along with the routine work. I am also thankful to my institute Jai Research Foundation, Vapi, India for providing financial support.

I would also like to gratefully acknowledge Dr. Isha Desai, as although she was not directly involved in the study, she provided her invaluable guidance and support. She critically checked the manuscripts and the chapters, taking time out from her busy routine, which I understand takes a lot of effort. Thank you, ma’am, for your efforts in making the manuscripts flawless and readily acceptable for publication in reputed journals.

I am also thankful to Dr. Pratyush, Mr. Pranav and Mr. Shashikant for extensive editing during the finalization of the manuscripts and thesis. Apart from this, they also helped me to complete my course work! I would also want to mention here the help extended by Mr. Rakesh and Ms. Shailja. They took all the care for me and treated me as a part of a family (words won’t be able to describe the feelings and the support they provided).

Pleasure is mine to give whole hearted thanks to my strong lab supporter Dr. Hetal, Ms. Hiral and Dr. Gowri.
My special thanks to Mrs. Poonam (my wife), Mr. Kushwah, Mr. Sudhakar, Dr. Darpesh and Dr. Manish for their kind support during the experimental phase of the experiment.

As per the saying “behind every successful man there stands a woman”, she stayed back and took all the pain and provided her support to the family so that others in the family could grow. So I won’t miss this opportunity to say thanks to her (Poonam – My Better Half). She took care of my Son (Master Harsh) while I sat in a room and worked all the time.

I do regret that I could not look after my Son during the completion of the work and kept moving around but henceforth would spend time with him.

I would also like to thank my father-in-law Mr. Pankaj, who has great belief in me, my mother-in-law Mrs. Panna, who gave me relief in every possible way from the social and personal responsibilities.

Lastly, but most importantly, are parents, as they keep us motivating even though we keep faltering. They believe in us and are always very happy in even our smallest of achievements. I remember times before joining this lab, when I had lost all the hopes of doing a Ph.D., but it was the perseverance of my father (Dr. R. J. Verma), due to which today I am here. Thank you “Papa” for your belief in me.

I am thankful to the almighty for blessing me with strength and all mentioned as my support system.

Ramesh Verma
