ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I cannot bring myself to believe that this all-too brief note of thanks reflects my deep sense of gratitude in full measure, to those who are instrumental for the successful conduct and completion of my doctoral dissertation.

I am immensely grateful to my research supervisor Prof. Dr. (Mrs). V. Hemalatha Devi, Professor & Head, P.G. Department of Law, Dean, Faculty of law, Chairperson, Board of Studies in Law (combined), S.V. University, Tirupati, who inspired and guided me in to refreshingly new realms of research on dignity of women in human rights perspective, in which I have gushing concern.

Coming as she does from an illustrious line of legal academicians, Prof. Hemalatha Devi is a teacher of law par excellence and had impressive innings in the noble calling of teaching and research. Her scholarship is not cribbed and cooped to ivory towers of traditional curriculum. It has amazing breadth and sweep in terms of intellectual eminence. I am fortunate to be her student through out my career as a student of law in B.L, M.L and Ph.D Degree courses. She had regular rendezvous with me and imposed rigours of academic discipline. As a committed research supervisor, she put her shoulder to the wheel and fastidiously planned the broad contours of my research problem and took me to the rare heights of sublimated imagination and insights and ignited sparks of creative endeavour in me to see the darkest corners of woman's mind and soul tormented by 'Sita-Sati Syndrome' in the labyrinth of patriarchical hegemony of Indian social milieu. It was quite expedient that I had to place very heavy indent on her precious time and often trespassing her busy official schedule, yet she has been condescendingly kind enough to guide my research work and concluded the stupendous task on time. I cherish the delightful moments, which I shared with Chi. N.V. Chanakya and Chi. N.V. Pradyumna, the sweet sons of my professor.

I pay my respectful homage to late Dr. N. Venkatasubbaiah, Professor of Civil Engineering and an eminent environmentalist of international repute, S.V. University college of Engineering, Tirupati for all his blessings to me. My association with him was a rewarding experience, which developed scientific temper and research attitude in me.

I must thank Sri. R. Thippa Reddy, the correspondent, former principal Sri. Syed Maswood, my learned colleagues Sri. C. Nata Raja Reddy, Sri. B. Yuvakumar Reddy, Sri. P. Srinivas, Sri. Hyder Saheb of Dr. Ambedkar Law College, Tirupati and Smt. T. Sita Kumari Lecturer, Dr. Ambedkar Govt. Law College, Pondicherry for their kind help and cooperation throughout my research work. I am thankful to Prof. V.J. Naidu, Dr. K. Srinivasa Rao of the Department of Human Rights, S.V. University, Tirupati for promoting my academic interests. My thanks also due to Prof. T.P. Sudarsana Rao, Principal, Andhra Mahila Sabha Law College, Hyderabad for tendering valuable pieces of advice. I thank Prof. K.A. Parvathy and Mrs. Jahwari of Sri Padmavathi Mahila Viswavidyalayam and Sri. M. Nagaraja Rao, Retd Engineer-in-Chief, Tirupati for all their moral support. I thank Sri. Vedam Krishnamurthy for all his editorial assistance throughout the thesis.

I thank Sri. A. Raghunathan and Sri. K. Ramachandra Reddy, administrative staff of P.G. Department of law who helped me in the process of office transactions right from registration to submission of this thesis.

I thank Justice M.N. Venkatachaliah, formerly chairman, NHRC for his valuable suggestions in all sensitive areas of dignity of women. I place on record my deep sense of respect to Justice V.R. Krishna Iyer, Formerly Chief Justice of India who is the principal source of inspiration for me. Known for bluntness of candour his interpretation of judicial verdicts helped me to improve the quality of work. My visit to Indian Law Institute, Library of the Supreme Court of India, National Human Rights Commission, National Women's Commission, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi, National Law School of India University in Bangalore was fruitful where I could collect exhaustive literature on my research topic I thank the authorities concerned.

Guardian angel of my happy home my wife Smt. E. Manjulatha has been a constant source of inspiration in all my research pursuits. She has been keen on my research work rather than compulsions of domestic chores and kept me always scintillating with vigour and never allowed any situation that would dampen my enthusiasm in this regard. The beaming smiles of my children Master David Amar Raj (Chinnu) and Sarah Mahimanjali (Puttu), my nephews Srithej, Sriraj and niece Rishitha kept me cheerful in times of stress of research work. My father Sri. R.J. Rajarathnam, father-in-law Rev. E.S. Victor, my mother-in-law Late. Mrs. Sunkari Sarah Margaret, my brother Dr. R. Rajasekhar and my sister-in-law Dr. K. Asha Latha, my sister R. Jayabharathi and brother-in-law C.E. Premkumar have been guiding spirits at home who promoted my academic interests with profound love.

My good friends Dr. A.M. Krishna, A.Chinni Raj, K.Michael Raj, T. Madhavan and K. Hara Gopal with proven record of skills had done their best in rendering technical assistance.
