CONTENTS

Page No.
PREFACE i-iv
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS v-vi
ABBREVIATIONS vii-x
CHAPTER I : INTRODUCTION 1-44

1.1 Scope and importance of The Thesis
1.2 Object of Study
1.3 Thesis Structure : Chapters Overview
1.4 Conceptual Framework & Research Design
1.5 Comparative Study and Research :
   A Classification
1.6 Meaning of Plea Bargaining
1.7 Types of Plea Bargaining
1.8 Plea Bargaining in the United States
1.9 Introduction of Plea Bargaining In India
1.10 Salient Features of Plea Bargaining Under The Criminal Procedure Code
1.11 An Appraisal of the Concept of Plea Bargaining
1.12 Critical Evaluation of the Concept of Plea
    Bargaining
1.13 Critical Analysis of "Plea Bargaining" in The Code of Criminal Procedure
1.14 Procedure Involved In Plea Bargaining
   1.14.1 United States
   1.14.2 India
1.15 Evolution and Foreign Experiences
1.16 Three Main characteristics of Plea-bargaining
   1.16.1 The requirement of voluntariness
   1.16.2 Degree of involvement of the Judge
1.16.3 Status of the victim
1.17 International Divergence with Regard to Plea Bargaining
1.18 Statistics of Plea Bargaining

CHAPTER II: PLEA BARGAINING IN INDIA

Introduction

2.1 Recommendations of 142nd Law Commission of India
   2.1.1 Need of Plea Bargaining in India
   2.1.2 Magnitude of the Problem of Delay in Criminal Cases
   2.1.3 Reasoning of Proponents for Introduction of Plea Bargaining
   2.1.4 Objections Raised and views of Commission in Relation Thereto

2.2 Indian Law and Plea Bargaining
   2.2.1 Applicability
   2.2.2 Procedure
   2.2.3 Examination of Accused
   2.2.4 Mutually Satisfactory Disposition
   2.2.5 Disposal of Case on the basis of report
   2.2.6 Judgment

2.3 The Standard of Voluntariness and Proper Procedure of Law
   2.3.1 On a Case Instituted on Police Report-
   2.3.2 On Case Instituted on complaint-
   2.3.3 Model Set of Questions to be put to accused pleading guilty

2.4 Difference between Plea Bargaining and Pleading Guilty

2.5 Advantages of Plea Bargaining
CHAPTER III: INDIAN JUDICIARY AND PLEA BARGAINING

Introduction

3.1 Pre 2005 CR.P.C. Amendment Act Era
   3.1.1 Supreme Court
   3.1.2 High Courts

3.2 Post 2005 CR.P.C. Amendment Act Era
   3.2.1 Supreme Court
   3.2.2 High Courts
      3.2.2.1 Bombay
      3.2.2.2 Gujarat
      3.2.2.3 Madras
      3.2.2.4 Uttarakhand
      3.2.2.5 Delhi
      3.2.2.6 Punjab and Haryana High Court

CHAPTER IV: PLEA BARGAINING—A COMPARATIVE STUDY

Introduction

4.1 Plea Bargaining in US and Canada
   4.1.1 Introduction
   4.1.2 Doctrine of Nolo Contendere
   4.1.3 Prosecutorial Considerations while Bargaining
      4.1.3.1 Fundamental Considerations
   4.1.4 Plea Bargaining Systems in Canada and The United States
4.1.4.1 Fundamental Observations on Plea Bargaining in the United States

4.1.4.2 Fundamental Observations on Plea Bargaining in Canada

4.1.5 Plea Bargaining Practises

4.1.6 The Rationale of Plea Bargaining A critique

4.1.7 The Voluntariness Standard

4.1.8 Coercive Tactics of Prosecution

4.1.9 Plea Bargaining Effects on the Criminal Justice System

4.1.10 The Principles guiding Resolution Discussions

4.1.11 Bargaining Mechanics

4.2 Plea Bargaining in Victoria

4.2.1 Introduction

4.2.2 Plea Bargaining- A Means of Filling Gap

4.2.3 Research Analysis of Plea Bargaining in Victoria

4.2.3.1 Study by Mark and Roach

4.2.3.2 VSAC

4.2.4 Victorian Plea Bargaining Practices

4.2.5 The (perceived) Frequency of Discussions

4.2.6 Whether Appropriate for All Crimes, All the Time

4.2.7 Late guilty Pleas

4.2.8 Lack of Transparency

4.2.9 Sentencing Discounts whether Sufficient

4.3 Plea Bargaining in Georgia

4.4 Plea Bargaining In Nigeria

4.5 Plea Bargaining in India

4.6 Plea Bargaining in Other Countries of the World
CHAPTER V : CONTROLS ON PLEA BARGAINING  235-274

Introduction

5.1 Legislative Controls

5.1.1 Australia

5.1.1.1 Internal Office of Public Prosecutions Policies
5.1.1.2 Director's Policy
5.1.1.3 Practice Guides
5.1.1.4 Section C(6) A big Change

5.1.2 India

5.1.2.1 Legislative Enactment

5.1.3 United States

5.2 Judicial Controls

5.2.1 India

5.2.2 United States

5.2.2.1 Role of Judiciary
5.2.2.2 Role of Prosecutors
5.2.2.3 The Brady Triology

5.2.3 Australia

5.2.3.1 Due Process

5.3 Existing Controls Whether Sufficient to Control or Offer Scrutiny of Plea Bargaining

CHAPTER 6 : LOCAL SURVEY ON PLEA BARGAINING  275-284

Introduction

6.1 Research
6.2 Legal Research
6.3 Objectives of Legal Research
6.4 Significance of Legal Research
6.5 Empirical Research
6.5.1 Distinguished Features of Empirical Research

6.6 Object of Survey
6.7 Regarding Performa of Survey
6.8 Process of Survey
6.9 Data Collection
6.10 Data Analysis and Interpretation
6.11 Conclusion

CHAPTER 7: CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS  285-324

BIBLIOGRAPHY  325-334

LIST OF CASES  335-340