ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present study is in the area of instrumental product development which is largely a team activity. A single researcher alone cannot conduct such studies, spending the preparation of the instrumentational product. The main purpose of this investigation is to develop a video programme on Population Education and testing its effectiveness for B.Ed. trainees. The present study is perhaps a pioneering venture in this new area of instructional product development. There is need to express heartfelt thanks to a variety of individuals, teachers, administrators and technical personnel.

A deep sense of gratitude is owed to the Supervisor Dr. S.P. Ahluwalia, Professor and Head, Department of Education and Chairman Board of Studies in Education, University of Saugor (M.P.) 470 003. She is indebted to him for his keen interest, guidance and constructive suggestions. The research work could not take this final shape in the absence of his constant encouragement and timely advice.

Furtheron thanks are due to Dr. M.R. Magar, Specialist in Education Technology, and Dr. M.D. Decousker, Specialist on Population Education and Dr. H.P. Khare, their valuable co-operation and previous help, without their involvement, the completion of such a study was perhaps impossible.

The help of the technical staff, specially of video cameramen Mr. Satendar Bhai is heartily acknowledged as he has helped in successful completion of the development of video programme within the prescribed time with interest.

Furthermore, in data collection in valuable help of the Principal, Government College of Education, Chhatarpur and teacher incharge, Population Education of Govt. College of Education Jabalpur is thankfully acknowledged.

The help of Dr. Sanjay Jain in data processing on the computer was highly valuable and needs a special mention.

The teachers of the education faculty, and other friends who gave continuous help and inspiration for successful completion of the work deserve a special mention.

My respected Mother-in-law and Grand mother and Father deserve thanks for the blessings and inspiration for its timely completion.

My husband Rajendra Dubey, and all family members deserve credit our co-operation and using help that sustained me in the hours of dire need.
