I express my deepest gratitude to Prof. Arun Kumar, my mentor for his valuable guidance, inspiration and his utmost enthusiastic efforts, without whom, this thesis would not have been existed. He managed to put me on a perfect balance in between direction and free will. Not every one would give such a chance to someone so young in this field of Earth Sciences Prof. Arun Kumar is the man in my life without whose support, encouragement and blessing this work might not have seen the light of the day.

Again I acknowledge my deep gratitude for Dr. V.K. Gahalaut, Scientist, National Geophysical Research Institute (N.G.R.I), Hyderabad, who helped and supported me in my research work. His guideline, technical know-how and valuable ideas are of great importance in shaping the research work a success one.

I am grateful to Dr. Rk. Ranjan, Director, A.S.C. Manipur University, Dr. Manichandra Sanoujam and Dr. Rk. Chingkhei, for their extended support, help and also for best suggestion in improving the manuscripts.

I am also grateful to Dr. Kalpana, Scientist, Dr. Joshi Catherine, Scientist and all my friends of N.G.R.I. Hyderabad, for their co-operation and support during my GPS Campaign and Data analysis.

Furthermore I extend my warm appreciation to Mr. Th. Dolendro, Mr. Ksh. Nabachandra and all the project staffs of GIS Laboratory and Seismological observatory, Department of Earth Sciences, Manipur University for extending co-operations and help throughout my research work.

There are also special mentors whose published works helped me to a great extend. But it’s not practical to mention all.

I am thankful to Almighty and indebted to my parents, my brothers Suraj, Suna, Somen and sister Anjana, for total encouragement as and whenever necessary with all the efforts. I am also thankful to Ak. Gyanendra (Tachou) for giving moral support and elderly guidance.

For the financial support, I extend my heartiest acknowledgement to Department of Science and Technology, Government of India.
