ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

At the very outset, I express my profound gratitude to my learned guide Prof. Biman Kumar Dutta for his tireless and valuable advices through which; I could complete my Ph.D work and brought to the present thesis form. In fact this work would not have been completed in time without his valuable suggestions, sincere encouragement and well planned scientific guidance right from meticulous planning to the writing stage.

I also would like to express my gratefulness to Prof. Abhik Gupta, Dean, School of Environmental Sciences, Assam University, Silchar for completing the necessary academic and administrative formalities without delay.

I also expressed my sincere gratitude to Prof. Jayashree Rout, Head, Department of Ecology and Environmental Science, Assam University, Silchar for providing me the facilities for carrying out the present investigation.

I would also like to thank the I. B. Ubadiya, Manager and Mr. Hanuman Singh Parihar, Deputy Manager of Rosekandy Tea Estate for granting me the permission to carry out the field experiments in their Tea plantation area and for extending assistance in the field work. Thanks are also due to all the labourers of the Tea estate who have rendered their sincere co-operation in various activities of my field experiment including spraying of the experimental plots.

I am thankful to the non-teaching faculties and laboratory assistants Kamala Kanta Sinha and Siddharta Sen for their kind co-operation and help during the analytical work.

I am grateful to the Indian Type Culture Collection, IARI, New Delhi for helping me in identification of the isolated fungal strains.
I am extremely grateful to my seniors Okram Gangarani Devi and Pranjal Morang and my labmates Yumnam Devashree, Rosalind Thingbaijam, Soram Inaobi Singh, Oinam Ibetombi Devi, Anuradha Das, Naba Jyoti Borah and Deepti Mala Sinha for their continuous encouragement and generous help during my research work and making the atmosphere of the laboratory enjoyable while working.

I am also thankful to my friends M. Banita Devi, M. Sapana Devi, Bijita Barman, S. Manoranjan Singh and Manika Das for helping me in statistical analysis.

I tender my gratitude to Guichamlung Daimai (research scholar, Dept. of Linguistics), my brother Thoudam Rakesh Singh (Dept. of Physics) and my sisters Thoudam Romita Devi (Dept. of English) and Thoudam Rosy Devi (Dept. of Law) for their moral support and constant encouragement in every step during the course of my research work and for accompanying me for my field work.

I express my sincere gratitude to my family for their full support during the course of my work.

And last, but not the least, I owe to the Almighty for the blessings showered upon me in completing the work.

(ROMILA THOUDAM)
